Puritan Funerary Art

A dear kindly lady, a member of our church for many years and whose remains are interred here, always, during her adult life, referred to our burial ground as, "God's Half Acre." This is a fitting description of this consecrated, hallowed ground.

Actually, our burial ground covers about five acres. As of October 1, 1972, about three thousand burials have been made.

Our burial ground, which is one of the oldest in our state of New Jersey, contains not only the remains of many of the earliest settlers of our Township, but also many of those who fought for our freedom as noted worthies in the Revolutionary War, and in our nation's subsequent wars.

The oldest monument in our burial ground is dated 1690 (Fig. I). This field-stone monument is in an excellent state of preservation in spite of the passing of almost three hundred years. This stone bears no name, only the initials, "E.F.B.F. 24, 1690."

This interment may possibly be a member of the Bloomfield family inasmuch as the adjoining stone to this 1690 one is plainly marked "Moses Bloomfield."

It is highly probable that numerous interments were made prior to 1690, since Woodbridge was first settled in the 1660s. If however, any monuments were placed prior to 1690, they have long since vanished. A survey made in 1849 of the cemetery showed the above mentioned monument to be the oldest at that time.

As early as September 29, 1703, Samuel Hale and Adam Hude were appointed to repair the meeting house and hang the gates of the "Burying Place." In 1705 a sum of money was levied for repairing the graveyard fence. [1]

Three to four hundred red sandstone monuments still standing, and an unknown number vandalized and/or destroyed by erosion are existing proof of the influence of the New England Puritan Funerary art in our burial ground.

The writer has been told by an eminent genealogist that some of the red sandstone monuments which will be discussed in more detail were carved in New England and brought down to Woodbridge.

Puritan funerary art shows a deep strain of passion and a naive delight in mystical symbolism. The Puritan was a stern, unpretentious character with no desire for show or ostentation of any kind.

Even their homes and churches were plain with no decoration, fancy work or embellishment. [2]

History informs us that as early as 1550 in England whole shiploads of religious statuary were exported to France by the Puritans. In 1559 two great bonfires in London consumed even the wooden cross images from St. Peter's Cathedral and elsewhere.

Almost a century later in 1642, during the English Civil War, Puritan troops destroyed graven images. Even the great cathedrals of Exeter, Canterbury, and Winchester felt the relentless hammering of the Puritan iconoclasts. These same prejudices regarding ostentation were brought to New England by the Puritan settlers.

We may assume from the foregoing that when death claimed a member of a Puritan family, the grave would be marked by the plainest of stones, devoid of any form of engraving other than the name, dates of birth and death, or there might be an epitaph with Puritanical overtones.

Not so! The family was not content with the lengthy words of condolence, sympathy and scripture readings by the minister at the grave side. Their love for the deceased and the unexplained, unfathomable quirk of the Puritan mind required that what today we consider symbols be engraved on the monument to show their fears and hopes that surround the mysteries of Death and Resurrection. [3]

Between 1668 and 1815 the Puritans utilized engravings which appear to be almost mystical in appearance and interpretation. There is little, if any, historic precedent for use of the symbols which appear to depict the voyage of the soul through death toward salvation and eternal glorified Life.

The New England stone carver and his local imitators doubtless, on instruction from Puritan leaders, spoke in the language of paradox when over a period of years they transformed the symbol of the death's head into the symbol of the soul image. No grouping of New England symbols has aroused more controversy than these symbols of transformation which purport to change grim death into sweet conceptions of the soul. They are not complex enough to sense that the soul can abide in heaven only by first becoming lost in death. [4]

Like other early colonists the Puritans generally followed English custom by placing their common burying grounds adjacent to their meeting houses, in full ominous view of the worshipper.

The Puritans came to Woodbridge from New England in the 1660s in hope that by moving to the freer environment they would not only be able to recover a stricter practice of church membership but also escape the encroachment of the English crown which was whittling away at the traditional freedom of the New England colonies.

It thus is not difficult to understand how extensively the early Woodbridge settlers coming from New England were influenced by the Puritan funerary art as shown by their local burial ground.

As mentioned above the symbols of transformation seem to depict the voyage of the soul through death toward new life in terms of becoming rather than of being. As soul image after soul image voyages through the gray voids of becoming the imagery slowly reveals a branch of theology that treats of death, judgment, and the future state of the soul conceived in motion intellectually, but pictured stylistically in static movement. At the harbor of death and life, the begining and the end of the symbolic voyage, the imagery crystallizes first into the form of the winged death head and then into the equally clear effigy of the glorified soul. [5]

Fig. 2 shows the engraving of the so-called Death's Head. To the Puritan mind this symbolized the transporting of the soul into Paradise. The empty eye sockets, tapering jaw, splayed nose, serated closely shut teeth of both jaws, are typical of this particular style of engraving.

By account there were, on September 1972, approximately 260 red sandstone monuments in our burial ground which conform to this type. No doubt many other similarly engraved stones have eroded away or been vandalized beyond recognition. The oldest identifiable monument at this writing, in this particular category is dated 1732 in area 5-6; B-C.

Fig. 3 and 4, dated 1740 and 1724 respectively, show the winged death head but with the "crown of righteousness" over the head. This particular type of engraved stone is not nearly so numerous as the type shown in Fig. 2. The wing engraving of Fig. 4 is much more elaborate than any previously shown. The "crown of righteousness" was engraved in pointed, fluted and other variations; but in whatever form it appeared, it proclaimed the same message when associated with the soul —Resurrection in Christ. [6]

2 Timothy 4:8 reads:

"Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day and not to me only, but unto all them also that love his appearing."

1 Peter 5:4 reads:

"And when the chief Shepherd shall appear, ye shall receive a crown of Glory that fadeth not away."

James 1:12 reads:

"Blessed is the man that endureth temptation, for when he is tried he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him."

Along about 1750, a change took place in the symbolic carvings on the monuments. The winged death head was seldom, if ever, used. It was replaced by a somewhat cherubic face or symbol known to the Puritan as a glorified soul image having wings to speed the transporting of the soul to paradise. [7] There are about one hundred of this particular type of engraving still standing and legible.

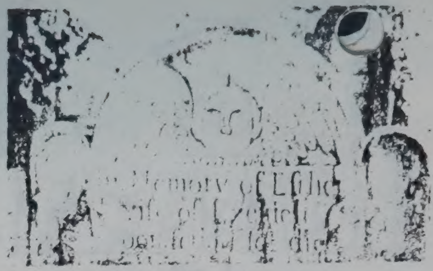

Fig. 5

Fig. 5 shows a version of the so-called soul images or cherub engraving. We would not describe it as angelic looking but it is a pleasant departure from the awesome death head engraving. The eyes and nose are quite natural, but the mouth is tight and grim in appearance. The detail work on the wings is quite elaborate.

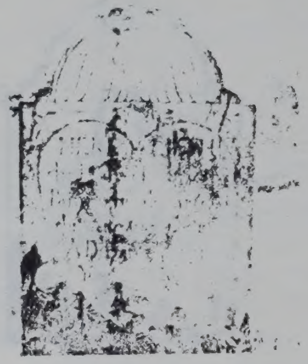

Fig. 6

Fig. 6 shows another soul image with a garland and crown above the head and a large graven heart outlined on the main body of the stone. The Puritans believed that an engraving of a heart on a monument exemplified the soul in bliss and was always in symbolic opposition to the imagery of Death. [8]

Figs. 7, 8, and 9 with a slight variation in detail, are further examples of the so-called symbolic glorified soul images.

The Puritans believed when death occurred that the Spirit left the body through the mouth. [9] Exactly when this thought came into being is not known to the writer. The manifestation of this belief is not shown in the monuments dated earlier but is very noticeable in Figs. 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, and 15. The distended cheeks in these engravings leave no doubt that the spirit is escaping through the mouth.

In Figs. 10, 11, 12, and 13 the crown above the head is well defined and in some instances quite elaborate.

In Figs. 12 and 13 the additional engraving in the form of the two five-pointed stars with a circle is somewhat of a departure from any engravings previously noted. In addition in Fig. 12, we have the scroll engraving under the soul image face as is also shown in Figs. 14 and 15.

Fig. 16 shows the monument erected over the remains of Capt. Nathaniel Fitz Randolph (5-6, D-E). This monument has the typical Puritan winged soul effigy surmounted by crossed sabres. This is a most unique illustration of Puritan influence combined with a military motif. The top of this monument also exhibits a series of jointed semicircular carvings. The surface of this monument shows many pit marks or small craters. Did the crossed sabres inspire some vandal to discharge a firearm loaded with buckshot against this most interesting historical monument?

Fig. 16

Fig. 17, dated 1726, is unique as far as the engraving is concerned. The skull is neither the typical death's head nor the soul image; the crossed bones are rare in our cemetery. A survey revealed only one other monument with an engraving of crossed bones. The hourglass engraving, however, is repeatedly used in Puritan engravings. In Puritan symbolism, it suggests the journey of the soul from Death to Life and also symbolizes the corruption and decay of the flesh.[10] The engraving around the top of the stone is unusual for the year 1726 and the engraving below and on both sides of the crossed bones challenge interpretation. Is it foliage from the "Tree of Life?" Does it represent flames of fire? Modern eyes and imagination cannot truly measure or gauge all Puritan symbols.

Fig. 18 is an interesting and beautiful exhibit. The engraving so prominently shown is "The Tree of Life." This engraving has had symbolic significance since at least the Sumerian times, 5000 B.C., and has been used by a number of cultures to symbolize spiritual values. It was used by the Puritans and still is so used until the present day. Note particularly the engraving of the coffin placed under "The Tree of Life." This combination of coffin under tree is symbolic of the victory of eternal Life over Death. Additional interesting secondary engravings are also seen on the right and left hand shoulders of this monument.

The Puritan influence had probably waned with the coming of later succeeding generations and the influx of other sects into the Woodbridge area.

The winged Death head and the winged glorified soul image engravings ceased to be used after the very late 1700s.

The engravings following those of the Puritan influence had no set pattern but were quite individualistic.

Fig. 19 shows an engraving of what is called an incinerary urn. The purpose of an urn as here illustrated was to receive the ashes produced by a cremation.

Fig. 20 shows the evolution of the use of a scallop shell for decorative purposes. This motif is found in various forms in a number of the old red sandstone monuments.

Fig. 21 shows a composite form of engraving: the scallop shell, but with fewer flutes than shown in Fig. 20; additional shell shapes in both upper corners and both floral and unusual geometric engravings are on the main face of the stone.

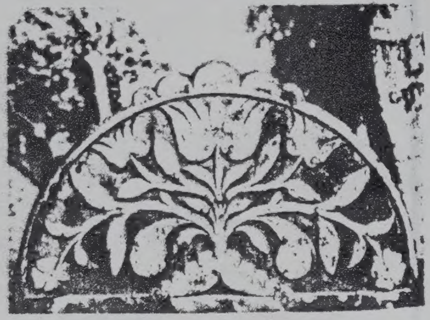

Fig. 22

Fig. 22 shows another example of engraving after the Puritan influence had completely waned as the year 1800 approached. This stone shows a beautiful symmetrical floral design suggested by the tulip.

The many monuments erected after 1800 are with very few exceptions the now standard granite stones. They are of a great variety of size and shape as is shown in Fig. 23.

The tendency in recent years has been toward a smaller, more uniform shape, roughly resembling a pillow (Fig. 24). This size is principally due to the fact that practically all recently purchased perpetual care plots accommodate only two to four interments. There have been no large (six or more) plots acquired by any family for many years.

It is somewhat surprising to learn of the frequency that new grave openings are requested by out-of-town residents connected with old time Woodbridge families who have large plots in which there are still unused burial areas.

There may be among the readers of this discourse doubts regarding the custom among the Puritans for their penchant for what may appear weird, almost frightening in appearance, graven images on tombstones. The examples of Puritan engraving in our burial ground are probably the least gruesome of any when compared with many examples of the art as it may be found in Hingham, Paxton, Bellingham, Deerfield, Hanover, and other Massachusetts towns, as well as in Peterboro, New Hampshire; Grafton, Vermont; Wiscasset, Maine, and many other New England burial grounds. "

How do we account for their strange taste in engraving on tombstones? There are no Puritans available to answer this question. If however, we delve into certain facts concerning the Puritans, we probably will agree that their reasoning or thinking was complex, yes, complicated, even paradoxical. How otherwise would we account for their system of engravings on tombstones or their belief in witchcraft?

Witchcraft is the human exercise of alleged supernatural power for anti-social, evil purpose. Witchcraft survived in England until the 18th Century — 1200 years after the introduction of Christianity and was taken to Colonial America by English settlers (including the Puritans). In 1692 after a prolonged witch trial in Salem, Massachusetts, as a result of accusations by a group of teenage girls, more than 30 persons were convicted of witchcraft.[12] The usual sentence for conviction of witchcraft was death.

The reality of witches and wizards was universally assumed; witchcraft being merely another wile of that old deluder Satan himself. Evil demons and unclean spirits had to be cast out or driven into the sea, as in the New Testament. Seventeen hundred years had brought about some refinements in the "driving into the sea" method but these benefitted pigs more than people.[13]

It takes no stretching of the imagination to understand how the Puritan mind which could condone all the indignities and persecution, yes, even death upon a suspected witch or wizard could and did design, invent, and carve symbolic figures on headstones. Symbols that are far from being aesthetic or pleasing to the eye. In some instances the symbolic meaning defies our present day interpretation.

To bring this matter of symbolic carvings, witchcraft, and the peculiarities of the Puritan mind to a close but to show how fully it had immigrated to Woodbridge is illustrated by one simple "quote" from a law passed by the General Assembly in meeting at Woodbridge, New Jersey on December 9, 1675: "If any pesron be found to be a Witch, either male or female, they shall be put to Death."

Section 2

First Families or Early Settlers
Interred in Our Cemetery

In 1670 there were fifty-seven individuals who were made patent holders by the East Jersey Proprietors. This meant that they were given land, some a surprisingly large acreage, and are referred to as the First Family or Early Settlers.

"If one owned a small tract of land in those early days, it was called a farm; if it was approximately 200 acres, it was a plantation."[1]

A search of certain available records show a surprising number of this group were interred in our cemetery. We feel sure that the following short biographies regarding some of the first families or early settlers will be of interest to the reader.

Alston — Here is a family name that few, if any, readers will associate with the very beginning of the settlement of Woodbridge. This surmise will apply as well to other first family names which follow.

The early records show that John Alston, Sr. and two sons, John, Jr. and Peter, were among the first settlers of Woodbridge.[2]

John Alston, Sr. suffered shipwreck in Boston Bay on July 26, 1631 with two other fishermen. He later removed to Welles, Maine, where he took the Oath of Allegiance to the Massachusetts government on July 5, 1658.

There is no doubt but that with the other inhabitants of the Piscataqua region of New Hampshire and Maine who found their way to Woodbridge, also came John Alston, Sr. to head the locally prominent family by that name.[3]

Twenty-two Alstons have been interred here, the earliest is dated 1733.

Ayres Family

The Ayres or Ayers were from Newbury, Massachusetts at which place Obadiah Ayers, by his wife Hannah, had a son born March 2, 1663. Obadiah was probably the son of John Ayres, who was of Salisbury, Massachusetts in 1640; of Haverhill in 1647; and of Ipswich, Massachuse[illegible]n 1666. [4] The writer found no record of the exact date of the coming of the Ayers to Woodbridge but Obadiah was listed as a Freeholder in 1670. He received a grant of 171 acres of land. There is still, today, between Main St. and former Metuchen Ave., a property known as the Ayer Clay Bank.

There are nine interments in the Ayer Plot.

Barron Family

Without a shadow of doubt, one of the most interesting of the early Woodbridge families is the Barron Family.

The Barrons are descended from the Palatine Barons of Burnchurch, County of Waterford, Ireland. The patronymic name of the family was FitzGerald. The last branch of the FitzGeralds, who were Barons of Burnchurch, retained for several years a station of rank and influence in Kilkenny. When they became involved in the troubles of the times they were forced to abandon their native shire and settle in the bordering county of Waterford. To escape the rancor of persecution and elude its vigilance they assumed the cognomen of Barron insted of their patronymic, FitzGerald. [5]

The FitzGerald family can be traced back to the Battle of Hastings and William the Conqueror to the year 1066. The earliest traceable individual member is Walter FitzOtho in 1086.

The first member of this family, who now called themselves the Barrons as apart from Baron, who came to America, was Ellis Barron. He came to Watertown, Masachusetts in 1640 with his first wife Grace and their five children.

A grandson of Ellis, Elizeus by name, born June 4, 1672 in Groton, Massachusetts, came to Woodbridge about 1690 and was considered as among the first setlers. Elizeus had a son, Samuel, born in 1711 and who died on September 1, 1801.

Thomas Barron, born in Woodbridge June 10, 1790 and died August 31, 1875, made munificent bequests to various institutions. He and his nephew, Col. John C. Barron, gave the land and money to erect the Barron Memorial Library on Rahway Avenue.

The cost of the original contract for the building, including laying out the grounds and beautifying them, was $17,998.58. The official dedication of the library took place on September 12, 1877.

Col. John C. Barron was chief surgeon of the 69th New York Volunteers during the Civil War. He was born November 2, 1837, in what is now the Dr. Rothfuss property at 574 Rahway Avenue. He [illegible] February 8, 1908.

There are at least thirty-one interments in the several Barron plots going back to 1744. Fig. 25 shows the monument on the Thomas Barron plot. Fig. 26 shows the family monument on the John Barron plot.

The Barron family is related by marriage to Calvin Coolidge, the 29th President of the United States. This relationship may be traced as follows:

1. A daughter of Ellis, Hannah Barron (born 1635) married Simon Coolidge (born in Watertown, Massachusetts in 1632) on Nov. 17, 1657/58.
2. Their son, Obadiah Coolidge, married Elizabeth Rouse on Feb. 28, 1686/87.
3. Obadiah, fifth child of Obadiah and Elizabeth, married Rachel Goddard on July 24, 1717.
4. Josiah, first child of Obadiah and Rachel, married Mary Jones on April 26, 1742. Josiah was a soldier in the Revolutonary War.
5. Captain John Coolidge, third child of Josiah and Mary, married Hannah Priest on September 8, 1779. Captain John Coolidge served in the war of the Revolution in Captain Artemas Horve's Company, hastening to the Lexington Alarms April 19, 1775. In the 1780s Captain Coolidge moved to Vermont.

6. Calv[illegible]oolidge, first child of Capt. John Coolidge and Hannah Priest, married Sarah (Sally) Thompson (or Tompson) on Dec. 9, 1814 in Plymouth, Vermont.
7. Calvin Galusha Coolidge, first child of Calvin and Sarah (Sally), married on March 3, 1844 Sarah Almeda Brewer.
8. John Calvin Coolidge, first child of Calvin Galusha and Sarah Almeda, married May 6, 1868 Victoria Josephine Moor.
9. John Calvin Coolidge, first child of John Calvin and Victoria Josephine, born July 4, 1872, died January 5, 1933, married on October 4, 1905 Grace Anna Goodhue. John Calvin, called Calvin, became Vice President of the United States in 1921 and on the death of Warren G. Harding in 1923, became President and acted as such until 1929.[6]

Bishop Family

John Bishop was one of the original Associates. He was from Newbury, Massachusetts where by his wife Rebecca, daughter of Richard Kent, he had a son Noah born June 20, 1658. He received a grant of 470 acres.

There are four interments in the Bishop plot.[7]

Bloomfield Family

The name was originally French, coming to England from Caen, Normandy, and perchance is to be associated with William the Conqueror in 1066.

Thomas Bloomfield was a major in Cromwell's army. Upon the restoration of Charles II to the British throne he, Thomas, emigrated from Woodbridge[8], Suffolk County, England, with five children, Ezekiel, John, Thomas, Nathaniel, and Mary. They first settled in Newbury, Massachusetts. They then removed to Woodbridge, New Jersey in 1665. Thomas, Sr. received a grant of 326 acres; Thomas, Jr., 92 acres, and John, 90 acres.[9] The elder Bloomfield was a carpenter by trade. He and his son, Thomas, became Freeholders in 1670. A grandson, John, was a captain in Col. Drayton's 3rd Continental Regiment in 1776. The marriages of several of Thomas Sr.'s children are given in the Woodbridge records, but in some cases both the names and dates are partially obliterated. This is the case with Ezekiel, but it is quite certain that his wife was Hope, daughter of Edward Fitz Randolph of Barnstable, Massachusetts, and that they were married at Woodbridge, December 22, 1680.

Numbered among the members of this illustrious family was Joseph Bloomfield who served as governor of New Jersey from 1801 to 1802, again from 1803 to 1812. He was the grandson of Ezeki[illegible] Dr. Moses Bloomfield, another member of this family, was a well-loved physician in the town whose monument in our cemetery bears the following inscription: "In memory of Dr. Moses Bloomfield, forty years physician and surgeon in this town; senior physician and surgeon in the Hospitals of the United States; Representative in the Provincial Congress and General Assembly; an upright magistrate Elder of the Presbyterian Church. Timothy 1:12, 'I know whom I have believed.'"

In various plots there is a total of forty Bloomfield interments.

Brown Family

Research showed that a George Brown came to Woodbridge from Scotland in 1685 in the good ship "Henry and Frances." He was banished from Scotland for refusal to take the Oath of Abjuration, August 17, 1685. There is a total of at least 124 interments with the name of Brown in numerous plots in our cemetery, the oldest bearing the date 1713, including the above named George Brown, his wife Annabel, son James and daughter-in-law, Agnes.

Clarkson Family

James Clarkson, Sr. was a First Settler at Woodbridge.[10] He came with the Scots contingent in 1684-1685 directly from Scotland. It is believed that the family came from the town of Lithgow, Scotland. He lived only two or three years after arriving here. On October 12, 1687, letters of administration on the estate of James Clarkson, Sr. were granted to his son James, a yeoman of Woodbridge. Following his death, the widow of James Sr. returned to Scotland to live with her son John.

There are twenty-eight interments in the Clarkson plots; the oldest is dated 1715.[11]

Compton Family

Compton is an old family name going back to William the Conqueror in 1066. There is no record of anyone by this name interred in our cemetery. However, William Compton, whose daughter Mary was the first child born in Woodbridge in 1668, is probably the William Compton of Ipswich, Massachusetts. He purchased land there in 1662 but soon thereafter reportedly came to Woodbridge where he was a pioneer settler and received a grant of 174 acres. His grant must have been a wooded area since the records say that he was the first man in this area to cut down timber.

Rebecca Webb, wife of Benjamin Pearce Brown

Rebecca Webb, youngest child of Bwoman Webb and Ann Coward, was born in Toms River, Ocean, N.J., 26 Oct. 1837. The years, of her early life, were spent in contment and tranquil happiness, with her parents, on a well-provisioned farm, over looking the waters of the Atlantic ocean. She was twelve years of age when her father died, leaving her mother with the grave responsibility of raising a large family. Educational advantages were not great, but Rebecca readily acquired knowledge and was always a recognized leader among her associates. She possessed a natural ability for writing, especially in verse, and wrote on a variety of subjects in a most versatile way.

The Gospel message (Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints) was brought to the home town of Rebecca Webb, when she was fourteen years of age, by two young Mormon Elders. One of the Elders was Angus M. Cannon, then a young man of nineteen years. How she, with a girl companion, went to hear them, out of a spirit of mischief and of curiosity, how the wonderful message stirred every fiber of her being, and a fervent testimony of the gospel was planted in her soul, is a story often told by Rebecca Webb. She was baptised the following week, and from that time throughout a long and eventful life, she bore, to all who listened, a strong and ardent testimony of the truth of the Gospel.

Rebecca Webb and Benjamin Pearce Brown, were married in Toms River, Ocean, N.J. in 1857, when she was nineteen years old. It was there that their first child was born.

It may have been Rebecca who influenced her husband and his parents to join the church and emigrate to Utah. However according to the best information we have, he was baptized in 1852 also. They came to Utah in 1860, as recorded in the sketch of Benjamin's life.

Rebecca Webb Brown was very artistic in her temperament. One expression of this, was shown, in her beautiful needlework, which was exhibited at the Utah State Fair, and for which she received many first prize awards. At the age of 77 years she was awarded a 'special gold medal' for her general display of fancy work. She, on one occasion, presented President Woodrow Wilson with a beautifully, framed picture of the American Flag, which she embordered. The design, an American eagle, perched on the flagpole, was worked in silk thread. A personal acknowledgement, of the gift, from the President, was among her most valued possessions.

Her love of books and music, resulted in a culture that prevaded her home and was felt, by everyone, favored to visit her. She was quick to answer any call of need, and no one ever left her door in want, or felt an affliction or destitution, which she did not seek to alleviate. The well-being of others was her chief concern, and unselfish service a crowning attribute.

Rebecca Webb passed away on 20 Jan. 1922, at the age of 84 years.

#18 William Newbury md. #19 Mary Goodbody.

William Newbury's parents are not known. A marble slab once stood in the Sea Girt, N.J. cemetery with inscriptions to him and his wife engraved thereon. When it became apparent that the railroad would take in the ground of this cemetery, a grandson, Capt. Andrew Newbury had the slabs removed together with the bodies to either the Quaker or the Atlantic View cemetery in Manasquan. The inscription read..William Newbury, died 6 May 1832, aged 76y 3m 28 ds, Mary Goodbody. Her parents are unknown. The inscription on her tombstone read, died 3 May 1828, aged 69 years. The name of Goodbody seems to have entirely disappeared and in 1952 did not appear in the phone book or directories of Monmouth co., N.J.

Children of William Newbury and Mary Goodbody. Probably born in Monmouth co., N.J.

1. Elizabeth Newbury, b. 10 Sept . 1780 at Manasquan, Mon., N.J.; d. 2 Nov. 1844; md. 21 Mar. 1799 Benjamin Pearce.
2. Sarah Newbury, b. 17 Mar. 1798.

Nothing more is know/of Sarah, than her birth date. Though she is 18 years younger than Elizabeth, there seems to be no reason to doubt that these girls were sisters, Ref. Family records of 3 branches of the family.

Prudence Brown, a daughter of Joseph Brown and Ann Pearce, collected quite a large amount of data on the Brown, Pearce and allied family lines. Among her papers, which I examined after her death, was a little brown note book. It contained names and datam which checked with this family as listed in this record. Where the book came from, I do not know. She gives Sarah Ashley as the wife of William, and we have accepted this to be true, but I have never saw any actual documents, which verify this fact.

In the History of the New Jersey Coast, we read the following, on pg. 86::: Capt . John Maxon Brown, of Squan, (now Manasquan), is one of the oldest and most widely known of the citizens of Monmouth county. His father William Brown owned and carried on the shipyard at Union Landing, on the Squan river. .... John Maxon Brown was a brother to Joseph Brown who md. Ann Pearce, so from this record we have verification that William Brown was the father of Joseph Brown.

From 'A Scrap Book of Monmouth County Marriages', Bk. A pg. 137, we obtain the following item: John Ashley md. to Prudence Maxin, of Middletown, 1 July 1765. This is interesting because there has been a Prudence Brown in every known generation of the Brown family since the marriage of William Brown and Sarah Ashley. This John Ashley and Prudence Maxin are of the proper age, and the location etc., is right for them to have been the parents of our Sarah Ashley. This would also account for the name of ~~P~~ Prudence in the family as indicated. Also this could explain the Maxon, in the name of Capt. John Maxon Brown.

Another interesting fact is that in a run-down and abandoned graveyard located South of Claypot road, running west from Atlantic Highlands, there is a number of graves, all marked with field stones, and no identification except five graves. Two of the five graves have headstones with the name of Maxon, two are named 'Robbins', a family who inter-married with the Maxons, and one grave in the center of the five, is that of Sarah Brown, d. 27 Jan. 1841 ?, aged 76 yr. The graveyard is located near the old Brown homestead in Navesink or the Atlantic Highlands. Perhaps some day we will be able prove conclusively that these are indeed our relatives, whereas now we can only assume that they are.

The following legal items appear to concern members of this family:.....
From N.J. Deed Bk., HB pg.247:
8 Apr. 1805, Henry Maxson (Maxon) and wife Sarah deed to Sarah Brown, relict (widow) of William Brown (dec'd), (all living in Middletown) for $160.00 land on Claypit Creek (near Shrewsbury river) near property of Joseph Maxon (dec'd). now owned by his son, John, at a stone planted for a corner of Joseph Brown's (dec'd) land now belonging to Lewis Brown.

Deed Bk 'Q' pg. 419: William Brown administered estate of Joseph Brown, dec'd 6 Apr. 1805, town of Howell, county of Monmouth, .. sells to Lewis Brown of twp. of Middletown, Monmouth county, the land owned by Joseph on the Shrewsbuty river, twp. of Middletown, Mon.,N.J.....Signed Wm.Brown.

#10 BENJAMIN PEARCE Md. #11 ELIZABETH NEWBURY.

From an Old History and Atlas of New Jersey pg. 83, we gain the information that Benjamin Pearce was the son of William Pearce and his wife Lydia Tilton. This record states that he was named for his grandfather Benjamin Pearce, who emigrated from England and settled first near Charlestown, now named Boston, Mass.
Benjamin Pearce was born 31 Mar. or Jan. 1772, and was of Manasquan, Mon., New Jersey. He died 3 Sept 1855 and is bur. in the Quaker Cemetery at Manasquan, Mon., N. J. He donated the land for the church and graveyard to the Quaker sect of which he was a member. Benjamin Pearce md. 31 March 1799 Elizabeth Newbury. After her death in 1844 he md. as his 2nd wife Prudence Newbury the widow of David Newbury.

Elizabeth Newbury was born 10 Sept. 1780, probably in Manasquan or that vicinity. Her parents were William Newbury and Mary Goodbody. She died 2 Nov. 1844 and is bur. in the Quaker cemetery in Manasquan.

Very little is known concerning Elizabeth Newbury's parents and family. In a cemetery (now obliterated) at "Sea Grit" (just North of Manasquan) there once stood a Marble Slab with the following inscriptions engraved thereon: William Newbury d. 6 May 1832, aged 76y, 3 Mo., 28 da. and Mary Goodbody d. 8 May 1828, aged 69 years. The name of Goodbody seems to have entirely disappeared and in 1952 did not appear in the phone book or directories in Monmouth or Ocean counties, N.J. The name of Newbury is still found in New Jersey, but no relationship has been established between our William and families now living there, of that name.
Elizabeth Newbury had a sister Sarah Newbury who was born 17 Mar. 1798.

In 'A History of Manasquan' written by Miss Sarah R. Errickson we gain a few scattered notes about the Pearce Family, as follows:
In 1825 a settlement began, called Squan Village, (Now Manasquan). One residence was that of Benjamin Pearce (son of William). The Friends Meeting House was the only church in this section. Shipyards:—There was also the yards of William and Benjamin Pearce, who built boats of very familiar names The Allen Osborn - Osborn Curtis - Loretta - Edwin L. Pearce - E. L. Morris- Alice Pearce - Lacina and others.
From History and Biographical Review of the N.J. Coast pg. 83 we read:
The Pearce family is one of the oldest in the section now known as Squan & dates back many years prior to the Revolutionary War.
William Pearce came from near Boston and settled on the north side of Nevesink river at Manasquan. He was known as master Pearce. He and his wife Lydia were strict quakers. His son James settled near 'Wreck Pond', now known as the Spring Lake property. Asher located on land purchased from Thomas Tilton and Benjamin, who was named for his grandfather, who emigrated from England to Mass., bought the homestead from his brothers.
From 'Ellis His of Monmouth County, N.J. pg. 808 :
Sea Plain lies on the west side of the line of the Long Branch R.R. The station being between Long Branch and Ocean Beach Station. The place was long known as "Pearce's". A store was also started at the place many years ago, and is still kept by one of the Pearce family. (Book pub. 1885).
From a letter written in 1898 by Caroline Meeks, (gr.dau. of Benjamin Pearce and Elizabeth Newbury), "Grandfather related many things about the Rev. war, when I was quite young, especially about his grandparents. His (grandfather's) father was English, the mother French. They settled first in Boston, and if some papers had not disappeared they would own all Boston Common, for that was their property."
Mrs. Pattie (desc. of Asher Pearce and Mary Ellison), in a letter written in Sept. 1934, said she had been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Swan, who told her that the tradition has come to her that he, William Pearce, carried the deed to part of Boston, in his hat, until it fell to pieces.

Joseph Brown md. to Ann Pearce

Joseph Brown, son of William Brown and Sarah Ashley, was born at Manasquan, Monmouth, N.J., 28 Dec. 1804. He died 22 Oct. 1886 in Salt Lake City, Utah.

That Joseph Brown spent several years of his youth, living with his parents and brothers and sisters at Navesink, in the Atlantic Highlands, north of Shrewsbury, is indicated by the following exert from the biography of his brother Captain John Maxson Brown. It is recorded in 'The History of the New Jersey Coast'. It says: "Among the captain's earliest memories is that of seeing a naval skirmish of the war of 1812 from the Highlands.......". The author, of this sketch, visited that site in 1952, and noted that the height and location of this property, formerly owned by the Brown family, was such, that one could look down over the bay and mouth of the Navesink river, and far out over the Atlantic ocean.

It must have been very soon after their marriage that Ann Pearce and Joseph Brown settled at Staten Island, Richmond, N.Y. Whether this place of residence had anything to do with the shipbuilding trade, in which the family had engaged for several generations, or with farming, we do not know. There is no evidence that any other members of this Brown family lived in Staten Island at any time.

All the children of this couple were born at Staten Island. The eldest daughter Sarah was married at Great Kill Beach, called Gifforts, 11 Dec. 1844 to Stephen Williams. (Ref. Moravian Ch. Rec.) The children all married in the East. Benjamin, Elizabeth, and Prudence Ann, all joined the Latter-day Saint church during their lifetime. Joseph Brown and Ann Pearce emigrated to Utah with their son Benjamin, his wife Rebecca Webb and their first baby, Sarah, in 1860. (See acct. elsewhere in this record.)

One family tradition says that Joseph Brown built boats for use on the Great Salt Lake. One boat named was the Capt. Fulton. I have been unable to verify this tradition. Joseph Brown and Ann Pearce are said to have lived a few blocks south of the Union Depot, in a two storied house, (with a second story balcony).

Ann Pearce, the daughter of Benjamin Pearce and Elizabeth Newbury, was born 21 Dec. 1800, at Manasquan, Monmouth, N.J. She died in Salt Lake City on the [illegible] 1869.

Children of this couple are listed on another page, which also lists the children of Benjamin Pearce Brown and Rebecca Webb.

Benjamin Pearce Brown, son of Joseph Brown and Ann Pearce, was born 31 Dec. 1831, at Staten Island, Richmond, N.Y. We know very little about his early life, or of how he came t o join the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. It may have been the influence of his wife, Rebecca Webb, who had been a member of the church for several years, prior to their marriage. The marriage took place in 1857, and their first child, a daughter Sarah, was born in Toms River, Ocean, N.J.

As an early period, in the history of t he emmigration of the saints to the Utah valley, Benjamin Pearce Brown, was employed by President Brigham Young, to purchase 'bucket' machinery, for cooperage. He made two trips between the East and Utah, in the interest of this prospective industry. Then in the year 1860, with his wife and infant daughter, and his parents, he emmigrated to Utah, to estab lish a pernament home.

In the journey across the plains, of the mid-west, they were members of Capt. Jesse Murphy's ox-team company, which arrived in the Great Salt Lake City on 30 Aug . 1860. While still at Florence, Nebraska, he was stricken with a most serious illness, and his life was preserved only through the tender ministrations, faith and prayers of his wife and the Saints. President George Q. Cannon, was a source of great support, at this time, with his spiritual administrations and his words of comfort and encouragement. During a part of the journey, Benjamin Pearce Brown, was a captain over thid company of 279 persons.

Seven of their eight children were born in Utah. Benjamin and Ann spent a number of years on a farm at American Fork, where 4 children were born, the three youngest being born in Salt Lake City. The farm, in American Fork, was purchased from Mr. Barney Adams, who was grandfather of Maud Adams, actress.

While living on the farm, they had many unique experiences, with the indians, who frequently pressed open the door of their home and refreshed themselves, [illegible], with buttermilk from the churn, or took other liberties of a similar character.

Benjamin Pearce Brown removed his wife and little family to Salt Lake City in 1868, in order t o give the children better educational advantages. They settled in the fifteenth ward, where they resided for over forty years, on [illegible] Collum St.

Benjamin Pearce Brown died 14 Sept. 1905, in Salt Lake City, Utah

Dear Billie Armstrong :

The Janeway Account Books and the Grandin Fulling Mill Records do not appear in the same volume of the GMNJ. The Janeway Accounts are in Vo. 33 & others. The Grandin Fulling Mill Books are published much later, I believe in the 50's vols. I will not copy the entire articles; we have neither the staff nor the equipment to do so. The Janeway article is in alphabetical listing & I will enclose the Brown entries for you. Grandin Fulling Mill was located in Hunterdon County, which is a long way from Middlebrook in Somerset County, and Woodbridge in Middlesex Co. Our charge is 20¢ per copier page.

You will have to look far and wide for records from Middlebrook. It is not what is presently South Bound Brook. South Bound Brook was called Bloomingdale at an earlier date. Middlebrook is now a section of Bound Brook. It was located along the Raritan River, and was the oldest part of the Township. There is today not one house standing in the area dating to the date of its settlement. The Janeway store was located in the Middlebrook section. It it now believed that the Van Horne house, located on a rise of ground above the River in Bound Brook was the site of this store. The settlement extended for about a half mile along the river, and probably a mile up the Brook(Bound Brook). It was , like Bound Brook, part of Bridgewater Twsp. There was no church in Middlebrook; there was no burying ground in Middlebrook; just a tavern and dwelling houses and a grist mill. The records of the Bound Brook Presbyterian Church would be the nearest ; these records are not extant until 1806. The rest have been destroyed for more than 150 years. The other possibility would be the Raritan Reformed Dutch Church . This church has records(baptisms) dating to 1698. They are in print in the Somerset Co. Historical Quarterlies. A few families in that area also used the New Brunswick D.R. Church. These records are in print in the Proceedings of the N.J. Historical Society(late 1920's)There is a Davis Family Burying Ground across the Ratitan River opposite Bound Brook. It has a number of early stones in it. This too has been published. The family of Jacob Brown lived on the road leading from Bound Brook up the mountain toward Pluckamin. Many of this family are buried in some of the cemeteries across the mountain such as Mt Horeb Methodist& Mt. Bethel Baptist. (a number of them were Baptists). Burnt Mills is near Oldwick, in Hunterdon Co.(on the Tewkesbury/Bedminster Township line). This is about 8 miles from Bound Brook..

So much for the geography lesson. I have no idea where you initially cc copied the Grandin or Janeway records. Didn't they have a copier to use which would have made this confusion unnecessary ?

Yours truly ,

GORDON

This is a name derived from the parish of Gordon in Berwickshire. The progenitors of the powerful clan of the name were Anglo-Norman and settled in the south of Scotland in the twelfth century. Adam de Gordon was one of the Scots barons who joined King Louis XI. of France in the Crusade of 1270.

In the reign of King Robert the Bruce, Sir Adam, Lord of Gordon, obtained a grant of the Lordship of Strathbogie in Aberdeenshire. He proved of the greatest service to the cause of Scottish freedom, for as Ambassador to Rome it was he who effected a reconciliation between the Bruce and the Pope. He was slain at the Battle of Halidon Hill in 1333. His great-grandson, also Sir Adam, fell at the Battle of Homildon in 1402, leaving an only child and heiress, Elizabeth, who inherited all her father's possessions.

Elizabeth de Gordon married Alexander, second son of Sir William Seton of Seton. Her only son, Alexander, was created in 1449 Earl of Huntly, with limitation to the issue of his third wife, such heirs assuming the surname and bearing the name of Gordon. (The Earl had no children by his first wife; his only son, by his second wife, carried on the name of "Seton.") Huntly Castle.

George, 2nd Earl, left four sons. The second, Adam, married Elizabeth, Countess (and heiress) of Sutherland.

The 4th Earl was celebrated as the magnate whom the Regent Moray induced Mary Queen of Scots to attack and defeat at Corrichie after which his great castle of Strathbogie, which still contained the spoils of Bannockburn, was sacked.

George, 6th Earl of Huntly who, along with Lord Erroll, defeated Argyll in 1592 at the Battle of Glenlivet, was created Marquis in 1599. The 2nd Marquis, who was beheaded by the Scots Parliament in 1649, was survived by two sons—Lewis, 3rd Marquis, and Charles, created Earl of Aboyne in 1660. Their father, the 2nd Marquess, had been one of Charles I.'s staunchest supporters and before his execution declared, "You may take my head from my shoulders, but not my heart from my sovereign." George, 4th Marquis, was in 1684 created Duke of Gordon. The 4th Duke married the celebrated Jane Maxwell, and they raised the Gordon Highlanders.

In 1836 the 5th and last Duke of Gordon died without issue, when George, 5th Earl of Aboyne, succeeded as 9th Marquis of Huntly and chief of the clan and "Cock o' the North." Aboyne Castle is still the seat of the Marquis of Huntly, and on the "green of Aboyne" is annually held the celebrated Aboyne Highland Gathering.

Aboyne Castle is still the seat of the Marquis of Huntly, and on the "green of Aboyne" is annually held the celebrated Aboyne Highland Gathering.

There are many distinguished cadets of the Gordon clan. The Marquis of Aberdeen is descended from John Gordon of Essie, a scion of the original male line of Strathbogie. The 1st Earl was President of the Court of Session and Chancellor of Scotland. He received his Peerage in 1682 in reward for the service of his father, Sir John Gordon of Haddo, a celebrated cavalier.

Gordon of Kenmure descends from the second son of Sir Adam of Gordon, who flourished in the fourteenth century. Of this house Sir John, in 1633, was made Viscount of Kenmure and Lord Lochinvar, peerages which, however, became dormant in 1847.

So powerful was Clan Gordon in the Highlands that the chief is known as "The Cock of the North," and was jocularly termed "Gudeman of the Bog" (from the Bog of Gight, now Gordon Castle, near the mouth of the Spey), because this estate was held in feu from the Earls of Moray. This joke led to a long feud, and the burning of the "Bonny Earl of Moray" in 1592. Huntly Castle, now a ruin, was their most magnificent seat.

GRAHAM

Tradition traces the Grahams from an alleged "Gramus," demolisher of the wall or line of defence built by direction of the Roman Emperor, Antoninus, betwixt the Clyde and the Forth, in order to keep back the Caledonians, and which came to be called "Graeme's Dyke." Whether or not the overthrower of the Wall of Antoninus was ancestor of the noble House of Graham is another matter!

The first authentic Graham seems to have been William de Graham, who witnessed the charter of the Abbey of Holyrood by King David I. in 1128, and who obtained from the same Prince the lands of Abercorn and Dalkeith in Midlothian. The Grahams of Dalkeith appear to have acquired northern property during the reign of King William the Lion, when Sir David, a descendant of the first Graham of Dalkeith, obtained Dundaff, still held by the Dukes of Montrose, in 1237, and his descendant, another Sir David, got the Lordship of Kinnaber and Old Montrose in Angus from the Bruce in 1325, as well as other properties near Montrose. Sir John de Graham, who was termed "the right hand" of the patriot Wallace, and who fell in 1298 at the Battle of Falkirk, was the second son of the then chief of the Grahams. Sir William Graham, who lived during the reign of King James I., married, as his second wife, Mary Stewart, second daughter of King Robert III. By the sons of this second marriage various distinguished cadet branches of the Grahams were founded, including Balgowan (ancestors of Lord Lynedoch) and Claverhouse (ancestors of Viscount Dundee, the hero of Killiecrankie and the "Bonnie Dundee" of Sir Walter Scott's ballad). Patrick, the eldest grandson of Sir William, was in 1445 raised to the Peerage as Lord Graham, in recognition of his gallantry in the field and his services as a Lord of Regency during the GORDON. Owing to the fact that place names of this form occur in France it has been customary to trace the Gordons to a continental source. The earliest known home of the Scots family was in Berwickshire, and here we find a place name Gordon, from which the surname may have been derived. There was also a distinguished family named Gurdon in Hampshire, England, with whom it has been suggested they were connected. It has been further suggested that the Gordons were cadets of the Swintons as the coats of arms borne by the two families are the same. "Could this descent be established, the antiquity of the Gordons would be assured by tracing their ancestry through Ernulf of Swinton (the assumed father of Richard and Adam) and Odard of Bamburgh up to Waltheof the Saxon earl of Northumberland in 968, a pedigree which might account for their early traditions" (Sc. Peer., iv, p. 507).

The first Gordon recorded in Scotland is [illegible]er de Gordun, lord of the barony of Gordon [illegible] Merse. Between 1150–60 he granted a piece of land and the church of S. Michael to the monks of Kelso, a grant confirmed by his son, Thomas de Gordun (Kelso, 118, 126). Adam de Gordun, probably a brother, along with Richer or Richard witnessed the quitclaim of lands of Swinton by Patrick, first earl of Dunbar (Raine, 117). The Gordons are by most writers referred to as a 'clan', but they have not the slightest claim to be considered as such – the relation of their followers to the chief was entirely feudalistic. William Gordon, a Scot, was mate and ice-pilot of the Danish attempt to find the North-West passage in 1619. The Polish family of Gordon now living at Ycon are descended from Nathaniel Gordon who left Scotland in 1707 (Fischer i, p. 58). The late Dr. J. M. Bulloch compiled an exhaustive work on the Gordons, The House of Gordon, Aberdeen, 1903–12, in 3 v.

Sir Alexander Seton in 1408 married Elizabeth Gordon and became the ancestor of the house of Huntly. "He spent much of his time in Aberdeenshire, where he greatly extended the Gordon lands and laid the foundations of a strong clan following. He is said to have rewarded all who took the name of Gordon, and became his vassals, with a gift of meal, whence certain branches of the clan were called the 'Bow o' Meal' Gordons, just as the 'Jok' and 'Tam' Gordons distinguished the collateral or illegitimate descendants of the origina[illegible]tock. It is only by such a process of ac[illegible]on that the large number of Gordon families existing as early as the latter half of the fifteenth century can be accounted for" (Watt, History of Aberdeen and Banff, Edinburgh, 1900, p. 86). A correspondent in a recent issue (1943) of the London Times has made the absurd suggestion that the name is derived from Gordium in Phrygia and was introduced into Britain by a returned crusader.

GORGIE. From the place of the same name, a suburb of Edinburgh. John Gorgie, maltster, burgess of Edinburgh, is in record in 1628 (Retours, Edinburgh, 613).

GORGON. John Gorgon, weaver and burgess of Dumbarton, 1702 (RDB.).

GORME. May be from G. gorm 'blue.' Donald Gorme was witness at Lochlevyn, 1546 (Rollok, 3). Janet Gorme in Achnafie, 1717 (Dunkeld).

GORMLA. G. Gorm-fhlaith. A woman's name, well-known in Highland tales, but long obsolete. Gormflaith was the wife of Olaf Cuaran and mother of Earl Siggtrygg, and Gormlath, daughter of Malcolm MacHeth, was second wife of Harald Maddadson, earl of Orkney. Now rendered in Ireland by Barbara!

GORMLEY. Recorded in Argyllshire. It may be from Ir. MacGormghaile, 'son Gormghal,' a rare Irish surname (Woulfe).

GORMOK. Local, from Gormack near Blairgowrie, Perthshire. Thomas Gormok was minister at Fyvie, Aberdeenshire, 1574 (RMR.). Gilbert Gormak was admitted burgess of Aberdeen, 1604 (NSCM., i, p. 99), and Margaret Gormak appears in Peithill, 1633 (SCM., iii, p. 105).

GORN. An Orcadian surname of local origin. There are places of this name in Rendall, Sandwick, and Westray. Walter Gorn Old has written on theosophical subjects.

GORRIE. Curtailed from MACGORRIE, q.v. Eleven persons of this name are recorded in the Commissariot Record of Dunblane in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, mainly in the parish of Foulis. The Gorries of Perthshire are said to be descended from some Macgorries who settled about four hundred years ago in the neighborhood of Logie Almond. Andrew Gorry in parish of Caterlinge, 1631 (Brechin). William, son of Donald Gorrie in Logiealmond, and others were charged with hamesucken in 1637 (RPC., 2. ser. vi, p. 463). William Gorrie in Culnaclich, tenant of the earl of Tullibardine, was charged in 1642 with the wrongful imprisonment of John McAgo (ibid., 2. ser. vii, p. 298). Thomas Gorrie was captain of the watch at Logiealmond in 1682 (ibid., 3. ser. vii, p. 638). This "Watch" or company was probably the earliest formed on John Brow in Chapeltown, parish of Benduchy, 1653 (Dunblane). Thomson Brow died in Leith 1941.

BROWN. A very common name in Scotland, of more than one origin. (1) Brūn is a common personal name in OE. charters, e. g. Brun, c. 970, Brun bydel ('beadle'), c. 1000 (Kemble, Codex Diplomaticus, 981, 1353), etc. The name is from an old adjective meaning 'brown, dark red,' OE. and OHG. brūn, ON. brúnn. The adjective was also borrowed from OHG. into old French and is the source of the French surname Le Brun. A family of this name were the possessors of several estates in Cumberland shortly after the Norman Conquest. Camel, son of Brun came into possession of Bothel (now Bootle) in the time of Henry I (1100–1135). Gilchrist, son of Bruun witnessed a charter by R. son of Dunegal to the Hospital of S. Peter of York c. 1136 (cited in Bain, II, p. 421). Patric Brun witnessed resignation of land of Weremundebi (Warmanbie in Annandale) and Anant between 1194–1214 (Annandale, I, p. 3; Bain, I, 606). Ricardus Brun witnessed a charter by Ebrardus de Penkathleht (Pencaitland near Edinburgh) to the church of S. Cuthbert of Durham in the reign of William the Lion (Raine, 163). Several individuals of this name are recorded in the thirteenth century, but what connection, if any, existed between them is not known. Robert Brune witnessed a gift of land to the Hospital of Soltre c. 1250–1266 (Soltre, p. 32). Richard Broun, witness in Irvine, 1260 (Irvine, I, p. 5), and another Richard Brun was an assizer in Elgin, of which place he was an inhabitant in 1261. William Brun, who witnessed a charter of Donald, earl of Mar, of the lands of Dorlaw or Dronlaw c. 1279–1294 (SCM., II, p. 313) is probably William Brun, witness in Dundee, 1281 (HP., II, p. 223). Several of this name in the shires of Berwick, Edinburgh, Lanark, and Linlithgow rendered homage, 1296 (Bain, II). Joannes Broun who had a grant of the thanage of Formerteine (Fermartyn) from Robert I (RMS., I, App. II, 423) is probably the person who was sheriff of Aberdeen, 1331–1332 (ER., I, p. 24). William "dictus Brune del Borumore" (the Boroughmuir of Edinburgh) granted to John de Raynton a charter of the lands of Kirclambirston c. 1332 (BNCH., XVI, p. 331), and Ricardus Broñ de Otterstoñ attested the marches of Kyrknes and Louchor, 1395 (RPSA., p. 5). Patrick Broun was burgess of Edinburgh, 1405, and John Brown, clerk and notary public there, 1426 (Egidii, p. 41, 47). Broun of Hartrie near Biggar is said to have been settled there from about the end of the fourteenth century, and Broun of Colstoun claim descent from and bear the arms of the ancient royal house of France — three fleur-de-lys. Several individuals of this name from Scotland entered the French military service about the middle of the fifteenth century, and their names are recorded in the muster-rolls as Brom, Bron, Brun, and le Brun (Forbes-Leith, Scots men at arms in France). Members of a younger branch of Broun of Colstoun settled in Elsinore, Denmark, and became prominent merchants there. Many of the name Brown in Islay, says the late Hector Maclean, "came to the island from the low country (i. e. Lowlands) within the past century, and have no claim to be considered descendants of the Britheamh Ileach (the Islay Judge)" (Book of Islay, p. 19n); and the Browns of Tiree at the present day, says the late Rev. J. Gregorson Campbell, are called Brunaich, evidently a word not of native origin, and likely an adaptation of English Brown (Waifs and strays of Celtic tradition, v. 5, p. 12). (2) From G. Mac a'bhriuthainn, from britheamhain, the former G. genitive of britheamh, 'brehon, breive, judge.' Pat: M' aBriuin is one of the witnesses in the unique Gaelic charter of 1408 (Bk. Islay, p. 18). Donald Broune was rector of Lochow, 1539 (Poltalloch Writs, p. 184). Robert Abroun is recorded in Aberruthven, 1616 (Dunblane), and Niall M'Abrioune was servitor to the laird of Lochnell, 1658. The name of Diorbhorgail Nic a' Bhriuthainn, the royalist poetess and satirist of the Campbells of the beginning of the eighteenth century is Englished Dorothy Brown. Among the many islands on the west coast is one called Elan a Bhriu, 'the judge's isle.' (3) The name is also used as an English rendering of G. M'Ille dhuinn, and possibly of earlier M'Mhaoil dhuinn (see MACILDUIN). Braun 1676, Bron 1446, Brouin 1546, Broun 1320, Broune 1502, Browne 1509, Browyn 1525, Brune 1333, Brwne 1505.

BROWNBEARD. A byname. "Mihhyn brunberd aput corrukes" was one of the witnesses to the right marches of Stobbo, c. 1190 (REG., p. 89), and a payment was made to John, son of William Brunbert, a Galloway hostage, in 1300 (Bain, II, 1179; Hist. Docs., II, p. 426). Cf. BLACKBEARD, REDBEARD, and SMIBERT.

BROWNCLERK. John Brownclerk was burgess of Edinburgh in 1423 (LSC., p. 228), and the seal of William Brownclerk, designated as William Clerk, one of the bailies of Edinburgh in 1515, bears S' Willelmi Bronclerk (Macdonald, 261).

John had a relative named William Coward, who died owning a large estate in the City of Manchester, England. This estate was left in trust by Will of William for a Vegetarian College and the legal title was vested in Trustees for that purpose. The Trustees subsequently found the property was very valuable and as the College proved unsuccessful the Trustees sold the property for manufacturing purposes although this was contrary to the provisions of the Will of William Coward. The heirs of John Coward are all the heirs of William Coward and are entitled to this large estate in England. John owned a vast estate and many slaves.

The Janeway Account Books

BY KENN STRYKER-RODDA

ECONOMIC historians and sociologists have long recognized the value of account books, whether kept by an individual or by a store. For in such records can be traced the fluctuations of prices and the changing needs and desires of the consumer. But all too frequently the genealogist has neglected this source of information.

For the state of New Jersey, every scrap of written evidence prior to 1830 is essential because of the lack of census records and the destruction of so many early records during the Revolution and by subsequent fires and neglect. Hence journals, ledgers, and daybooks that indicate the presence of certain individuals in a particular locality at a definite time are very valuable. Nor is this usefulness limited to the pre-1830 period; for many families moved about during a decade, and these peregrinations are not reflected in the census.

One of the most valuable sets of account books, from a genealogical standpoint, is that kept by Jacob Janeway from 1735 to 1746 for a store in East New Jersey. When John Bodine Thompson examined these books in 1896 he was so impressed by their "value for future genealogists and historians" that he persuaded their owner, Mr. Henry L. Janeway, to place them in the Rutgers University Library. Having found on cursory examination of these books that certain persons supposed to have come to this country in 1749 were old inhabitants of Somerset County in 1735, and realizing the wealth of similar information in them, the present contributor determined to compile a genealogical summary of Janeway's account books.

The pioneer storekeeper in a rapidly expanding though fairly sparsely settled community needed to keep track of those of his customers to whom he extended credit. Janeway achieved this end in several ways, each of which is valuable to the genealogist. In many instances he recorded the area in which the person lived, often with

THE LINES OF DR GUS BROWN OF MARYLAND

902 S. Lake St. Ext.
W . IN 46580

JUST FILE ALPHABETICALLY BY LAST NAME

When I asked Eddie Beitzell to fix me up with a sabbatical so that I could untangle the Brown genealogy down in Charles County, I was joking, of course. Now, I am not so sure one year off out of every seven would give you quite enough time to do the job. I had not had all the Browns in mind -- just those with Gustavus for a first name. Well, after studying some prints I have accumulated through the years and dabbling in a few secondary references I keep at hand, I will trim my sights a little and concentrate on the Gustavus Browns of the medical field only. I still do not feel one year in seven will do it.

I have a book that speaks of Dr. Gustavus Richard Brown of Rose Hill being the son of Dr. Gustavus Brown of Rich Hill, also in Charles County. The Rose Hill owner was the physician who attended George Washington in his final illness and one source says his own gravestone shows he was born in 1745 and died fifty-six years later, in 1801. Another gives the dates as 1747 and 1804. Either set is conclusive proof that he could not have built Rose Hill because this is generally acknowledged to date from 1730. And it was not his father who built it because both my references tie him to Rich Hill, "also in Charles County." The points are interesting. One: Washington's physician was the son of another Dr. Gustavus Brown.

Two: Maybe Rose Hill did not have Brown origins, at all. Point one has importance as well as interest, but the second, as far as I am concerned, does not have either.

Just the other day, Mr. J. Webster Jones in Philadelphia sent me a yellowed, treasured pamphlet printed in 1949 by a pharmaceutical firm in New Jersey that someone might easily have thrown out years ago as just some advertising gimmick. Not Mr. Jones. While advertising was in evidence on the inside cover, the contents were pure gold to someone interested in Maryland and its history and Mr. Jones has a consuming passion for both. The entire contents were titled, "Medical Education in Colonial America." The author was Genevieve Miller and her byline read modestly "Institute of the History of Medicine The Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md." I read her compilation with the greatest interest and sure enough, tucked away in the middle of it was the sentence: "Dr. Gustavus Brown, Sr., mentioned before in connection with the indenture of Michael Wallace, also came from Scotland and established himself in Southern Maryland in 1708." This was early -- there may or may not be a Dr. Gustavus Brown on the scene today, but there most certainly was 257 years ago. And more recently, as I knew.

Johns Hopkins is a large and multiplex establishment, but I called it and reached a typically friendly understanding woman you would associate with such a place. She left the line a few minutes, returned and told me Dr. Miller was no longer there, but she had her new address. She was now with a Cleveland Medical Museum and she gave me the details, including the Zip code.

Now I felt I was getting somewhere. Genevieve Miller was a doctor and not a clerk in the public relations office. I might have guessed it from her competent, confident prose. I dropped her a note at her new office location, explained my peculiar susceptibility to Browns, particularly of the medical profession and wondered had she, perhaps, ever traced through this rather remarkable medical dynasty?

Meanwhile, I took a closer look at the Brown reference in Virginia -- A Guide to the Old Dominion. Years before, I had read of the nine Miss Browns and their twenty-seven husbands and I wanted to refresh my recollections. The reference was there in connection with Ellerslie, built by Dr. Michael Wallace in 1748 at Falmouth, opposite Fredericksburg. He had been literally indentured at fifteen to Dr. Gustavus Brown, of Charles County, Maryland and toward the end of his six-years apprenticeship he eloped with one of Brown's nine daughters in 1747. Well, I thought, in 1747 "my" Dr. Brown was only two years old. And the note did not say "of Rose Hill" either. My Dr. Brown, then, had nine sisters and not daughters and it concerned Rich Hill, not Rose Hill. I had been careless in my assumptions for a long time. There were two Dr. Gustavus Browns - that much was clear.

And another thing: what about those gravestones Nancy,

Warsaw, IN 46580

Susan and I stumbled on in the La Plata Cemetery? The dates could have - would have - significance. I went to my file of negatives and read my confident notation on the envelope: son of Dr. Gustavus Richard Brown of Rose Hill. Confident and stupid, too. A reading glass and a bright light knocked the props out from under me. This Dr. Gustavus Brown was born Sept. 13, 1854 and died July 20, 1911. The Doctor Brown who attended George Washington in 1799 had died soon after. I had read it on his gravestone.

What do you do with a gap of fifty-odd years in this day and age of the printed word? The D.C. Public Library had a remarkably complete file of local newspapers on microfilm and they were kind in making them available to the curious like myself. A Dr. Gustavus Richard Brown, dying in 1911, ought to command a three-column head with mention of two hundred years of Maryland medical history in his background. Well, we would soon know. I did not think where he had died would alter the fact of local press coverage. It could not have been too far distant, anyway, to have been buried in La Plata.

Miss Saul was not in, but an equally helpful assistant dug out the spool for me and threaded the viewer. I started with July 23, 1911 and tried the obituary columns and all the scattered news paragraphs. A great many were highly interesting, but I did not have time to browse. I read carefully up to July 25, with no luck. I cut it back to July 20, although I thought it hardly likely the news-gathering of fifty-four years ago would have caught the item quite so soon. I was wrong: it was on page 1, better than a half column and the second one in from the right-hand side. It left me breathless momentarily as I read, "DENTIST KILLS SELF. FIRES BULLET INTO BRAIN. PRACTICED HERE 25 YEARS." The article said Dr. Gustavus Brown had shot himself in the Champlain Apartments at 1424 K St., N. W. at 11 o'clock that morning. A widower for many years, his wife had been the daughter of Judge Stone of La Plata. Two notes were left indicating worry over ill health and recent business reverses. Dr. Brown and Judge John Matthews of La Plata had married sisters and the Judge was enroute to Washington to take care of funeral arrangements.

That was the general content of it, written perhaps too hurriedly to go into more of the Doctor's background. I searched the subsequent issues again in hope that a less rushed story might have brought out some of the incredible earlier history. Not a word.

I returned the roll of film to the desk and went around the corner to Biography. For once the Dictionary of American Biography was utterly blank on the subject at hand. Another pleasant librarian knew a vexed or puzzled look when she saw one and asked if she could help. I told her what I was looking for and she reached overhead for a volume called American Medical Biography. I was glad to make its acquaintance and I saw it was published in Baltimore in 1920 by the Norman Remington Company. I read hurriedly for fifteen minutes and made some notes:

Son of Gustavus and Jane Michelone Brown.

✓ Brown, Gustavus Dr. (1689-1765) Came to Md. in 1705 as surgeon's mate, educat. unknown. (Would have been 16) Father's name also Gustavus. Settled at Rich Hill, 4 mi Port Tobacco, Chas Cty. Married twice: 9 daughters, 3 sons. Popular with students; always had many. Two -- Drs. Michael Wallace and Jno Key became sons-in-law.

Brown, Gustavus Dr. (1744-1801) Grandson of above, Father Rev. Richard Brown, Anglican cleric. Nephew of Dr. Gustavus Richard Brown. Settled St. Mary's Cty. In 1782 attended Dr. Ireland who died. Married his widow, only child of Col. John Reeder, Rev. War vet., in Md. since 1736. Estate named Summerseat. Wife wealthy. No children. Called to att. Washington's last illness. Arr. too late. Hastily written summons a prized family heirloom. Lost with other relics when house burned 1874. Buried Reeder fam. cemetery. Westfield, St. M. Cty. Elaborate epitaph.

Brown, Gustavus Richard Dr. (1747-1804) Son of Dr. Gustavus Richard Brown by 2d marriage. Born Rich Hill, educ. in Edinburgh. In addn to phys. a county judge, active patriot and member St. Conven called to ratify Const. 1788. Popular with his many students Md. and Va. Attend G. Wash. last illness. 2 Sons, both phys. Buried Rose Hill, Port Tobacco.

When I returned to my desk I found a fat envelope from Eddie Beitzell containing, of all things, a wealth of Brown data. I recognized the flowing script of Charles Fenwick. He had been to see the Brown tomb in the Reeder family cemetery and had been kind enough to copy the epitaph:

Sacred to the memory of Gustavus Brown who depart this life on the 3d of July
Age 56 1801
He was a gentleman courteous, generous and hospitable in private life and in his public character human and useful skillful and unrivalled in virtue, honor, wisdom worth
May claim a grateful tear
Reader approveth the silent earth and pay that tribute here.

The rest I took home that night for a more detailed study. I found Charlie had also copied the inscriptions for two of the Reeders and two Egans. All had died in the mid-1700's. There were also some yellow legal-sized sheets in Charlie's handwriting covering the salient points and bequests in the will of Susanna Brown, probated Feb. 13, 1821 plus an accounting of her handling of the estate of Dr. Gustavus Brown. I noticed one of the Brown heirs was a Richard, but no Gustavus.

Typically, Charlie had also gone to the Assessor's Office and had two pages of tax records Xeroxed. One sheet was for Dr. Gustavus Brown and I noticed the Gustavus was spelled - us and - os, but never with i as on his tomb. Spelling used to be on the loose and careless side. I often wish it still were. The doctor had thirty-three slaves in the years 1793-6, but in 1801 only twenty. All the properties were named and there were fourteen in the earlier period with the acreage of each.

The last page set me back. It was the last will and testament of another Gustavus Brown, date of birth not given, but he died in 1840. It was probated Oct. 18 of that year. This one was oddly not a physician. More oddly it was signed

His Gustavus X Brown
mark

Charlie added a postscript without noting it as such. His note read "St. Mary's County Marriage Licenses":

June 25, 1870 Gustavus Brown and Harriot Walker

I whistled softly to myself and put the sheets back in Eddie's envelope. He had written a note in one corner to please return, and so the next morning I did.

You know these signs the utilities and tree surgeons and such set up in the traffic lanes that read "Men Working"? I am going to get one and hang it on the door to my den. I am going to have a hard time finding what I want, though, because by rights it should read "Untangling Browns."

Things I know about Samuel and Ester Bivins Family

1. Samuel Bivins, b. ab 1800 in New York (unconfirmed), Ester b. Pa. ab 1806
2. The family came to Ohio, probably settled in Brown County, as their 4th child, Joseph Edwards Bivins was born there in 1835.
3. Survey # 12161, shows that Samuel and Ester purchased 83 3/4 acres for $160.00.
4. The 1850 census of Makaski County, Oshaloogs, Iowa, shows the next three children born in Ohio, However, the family says the last child Boneparte who was 4 on the census, says he was born in Indianapolis, Indiana, which is probably true, as you read the next entry. Bonepartes birthdate is 1846.
5. Survey 19161, shows this land was sold to a Ervin Huggin for $500 83 3/4 A. on 28th day of January by Samuel and Ester Bivins, of Tipton County state of Indiana. (This means they have left Ohio and are now in Tipton, Indiana) Also this means they left Ohio before 1846, and sold the land after they hav left, because they are in the 1850 cencus in Iowa.

   Meaning: They left Ohio before 1844, was in Indiana between 1844 and 1850. I am now in the process of search Indiana.

   A. Boneparte returned as a young man and married Lydia Ann Steel in 1860, the Steel family lived from 1844 to after the Civil War at Eddyville, Iowa. I am sure Bivins and Steel lived in the same area.

6. The 1850 Cencus, Makaski County, Oshaloogs, Iowa

George	B. Ohio	10
Bonepart	B. Ohio	4	(the family bible says Indianapolis, Indiana 1844, but the census says 1846) refer to above # 4)

TIME ELAPSE I can not find anything more on Samuel and Ester, or the children except Joseph Edward and Napoleon Boneparte.

Re: Bivins, Bevens, etc

Dear Linda, Thanks for your letter of September 1, 1982, informing me of the fee about searching for Samuel Bivins w/ Esther and family, Browns County, Ohio.

Enclosed find the check for $25.00, use it up and we will talk further. Or what you feel is reasonable. This is just a hobby for me so use your judgement. Fair enough?

I feel Samuel and Ester Bivins came from New York about 1830 or 1835, as their son (my grandfather was born 1835, in Brown County, Ohio.

I am enclosing a lot a research on census on the Bivins in Ohio census. The only one I feel I have to "watch" is Leonard Bivins as he was living in Brown County at that time I have many sheets from other correspondence, but Leonard has kids with the same first names and I find that is rather commom with brothers and sisters.

The 1850 census in Iowa reads:

	Nathaniel	22	N. Y.	B. 1828
	John	21	N. Y.	B. 1831
	James	19	(N.Y. or Oh.	B. 1831
	Joseph	16	Ohio	B. 1835
	Minerva	14	Ohio	B. 1836
	George	10	Ohio	B. 1840
*	Bonepart	4	Ohio	B. 1846

* For some reason the family of Bonepart close to me says he was born true Indianapolis, Indiana, but I am sure that is wrong as the family was close to get in Ohio and Iowa, and Samuel and Ester must have been getting to old to return back to the West. and the census says Ohio.

Joseph married in 1860, probably I don't know where, but his first and second sons was born in Iowa. Boneparte born in 1846, married in Ohio to Lydia Ann Wilson, but their first three children was born in Iowa. ca 1866 untrue

I show a Joseph Bivins in the 1860 Ohio Census, but have not been able to get a print out.

Again, thank you

Dear Linda, Received your information with great enthusiasm, and now I am sure I am on the right track. First, let me tell you I have had many people research for me, and I have felt I have been took many times and received nothing, but I feel you have done me an excellent job, with the small information you have had, I am well pleased.

I have now updated the data I actually know and will pass it on to my other searcher and hope for a strike.

I will continue looking for Samuel and Ester, also the rest of the family, starting again in New York, to Ohio, to Indiana and to Iowa, where the family grew up and broke up.

The day I received your letter, where you mentioned Silas J. Bivans, I had two letters concerning him, each said they had nothing for me, but I think I will rewrite them and also keep looking at Leonard. One said her g. grandfather Silas J. Bivans was born in 1826, and 1 brother William and a sister,.she said her g. father was George Greenbury Bivans, b. Highland County, Ohio in 1858, she said " his brothers and sister do not follow your names, though there was a Joseph, he went to Neb. and Colorado, but not Iowa or Missouri. Brother Joseph stayed in Ohio, near Fayetteville. The other letter, said Williams Bivens was his ancestor born in Ohio in 1854, moved to Ark. quote "he thought Silas J. Bivens of Brown Co, Ohio, was Wm. father"

You said there was space for other children, Tim Hensgen, was referred to me out of Brown County Genealogical Society (what a creep) $20.00 for this information no research 1840 Census p.209, Green Township, Samuel Bivins , listed 2m.5-10 2 m 10-15, 1 m 30-40 2 f. under 5, 1 f 5-10, 1-f 30-40, I mention this as this is probably the family with several small females died. It took 5 people to read his writing, ha. Also another person, said he was kin to Josiah Bivans b. 1775 Delaware, of Franklin County, Ohio. Another was kin to Mary Ann Bivens who married Josiah Wilson at Peoria, Ill.

Also another who really is recycling the Bivens a retired person at Mountain Grove, Mo. She thinks Leonard Jr. is part of our family, he was in the 1830 Cencus, had a son Noah also the name Rollen keeps croping up we have Rawleigh, but the family called him Rollen In Wapello, Iowa, we have a John Bivins 4M and 2F. The lady is now visiting her home town in Nebraks and looking for Bivins, here hoping.

Linda, keep looking for me, if I owe you anything let me know and if you spend any time etc. send me the bill.

Thanks a million!

Dear Linda,

Pat Donaldson, Georgetown Library, gave me your address, thinking you might help me hunt an ancestor.

I am looking for the Samuel and Ester Bivins family. This is the information I know. Samuel was born in NY date ? Ester____? These are my g. g. grandparents.

This I know, they are in the 1850 Cencus of Mahaski County, Oskaloogs, Iowa. This is the true family.

Samuel	50, farmer	B.	N.Y.
Esther	44	B.	Pa.
Nathaniel	22	B.	N.Y.
John	21	B.	N.Y.
James	19	B.	N.Y., Ohio, the census to dim to read.
Joseph	16	B.	Ohio Brown County 2-12-1835 Married Rebecca Phillips she was B. 7-1143, 1843 N.C. married Joseph 1860, December. (I know Joseph was born in Ohio in 1835) My g. grandfather.
Minerva	14	B.	Ohio
George	10	B.	Ohio
Bonepart	4	B.	Ohio 1857.

Joseph and Bonepart both migrated to Ft. Smith, Ark. and Sapulpa, Oklahoma, I know these lines well, ----what I need to know what they was doing to Ohio during the years of 1830 until they left for Iowa and showed up in the 1850 cencus--also any brothers or sister of Samuel or Esther, did they die in Ohio or what--this I know Josephs first two son was born in Iowa. Albert 1863, Simon Henry 1865--Also Bonepart first two chilren was B. in Iowa, Lydia, and Rawleigh was born at Wanellp, Iowa.

Later, Joseph left Iowa and started South, Ira, his son was born in Senec, Mo., 1867, Daniel Dee, was born in Texas 1867, Emily, 1874 and Ada, 1880 both born in Fort Smith. we have this line. Ira being my grandfather.
Bonepart left Iowa, Nettie born in Lawerence, Kansas, the family settled in Sapulpa, Oklhoma, I have this line.

This is a quick resume of what I need, something to tie the family together from 1830 to 1850, while they lived in Ohio, or probably before. May I hear from you and quote me a fee sent 9/1/82

Documentation for Work Family History

The following documentation is taken from the editor's transcribed notes, and therefore contains a variety of abbreviations and shortcuts. At the least it may provide some guidance toward those researchers desiring to do additional work regarding this family. It does not presume to include all of the possible items which might be found, especially in such areas as deeds or court records, but it does represent the data which the editor has seen and which has provided the basis for much of the geneological presentation of the family.

Since the basic genealogy booklet connected with this data was arranged according to the four major sections of (I) Alexander Work, (II) James Work, (III) William Work, and (IV) other data, the documention section will follow this same order. (Note: The counties listed within a particular section, such as the marriages, are not arranged alphabetically, but are arranged to best utilize the space of that page. Under a given county, the data is usually arranged by date. The census data is arranged first by year, and then by county within each year's census.)

Preface

It should first be stated that I am not descended from the Work family, but I do enjoy the pursuit of genealogical research. About seven years ago I sought to help my brother-in-law learn more about his own family history. More recently, I moved to the area where some of his ancestors had lived, opening up new research opportunities at local libraries, courthouses, etc. As is often the case with this hobby, I soon found myself surrounded by an abundance of data and the repeated awareness that the more answers one finds, the more questions then arise. There were in fact a multitude of "Work families". Were these groups related? Is anyone else studying this name?

Much as I would like to resolve all of these mysteries and data gaps which seem to defy solutions, time does not permit me to do the exhaustive research which is required. Although there is, on the one hand, a desire to wait, hoping that a more complete result might become possible, eventually there comes the time when one must simply say, "Enough!", and attempt to share the information which has been accumulated, incomplete though it may be. This booklet is my limited attempt to pull together some of the discoveries I have made, and at the same time to present some guesses and hypotheses toward the larger picture, which may aid other researchers in their work.

Some limits must be placed on such an effort, so these pages primarily deal with those families of the surname "Work" who have a connection with the three southwestern Ohio counties of Adams, Brown and Clermont. The history of these groups will lead us into Warren Co., OH. to the north, and also across the Ohio River to the south into Mason Co., KY. In a more limited way, we must touch upon some possible Pennsylvania and Maryland roots which predate the Ohio residency.

The primary emotional focus of this effort will be on the family of Alexander Work who migrated from Fayette Co., PA. to Warren Co., OH., and then into the northern portion of Clermont Co., OH., since this is the family from which my brother-in-law descended. Secondarily, we will deal with the family of James Work of Ireland and Brown Co., OH., who is more recognized in most of the historical literature of the area. Then we will turn to several other names (William, Samuel, and Robert Work) who may or may not be related to the above groups.

The abbreviations used throughout this book are common to most genealogical writings --

b. (born)	d. (died)	m. (married)	bur. (buried)
s/o (son of)	d/o (daughter of)	ch. (child/children)	c. (circa = about)

In referring to names of parents, the father's surname will not be repeated unless different than the child's surname. Thus "John Smith, s/o George & Betsy (Jones)" means that John was the son of George Smith and his wife Betsy Jones. Sources are indicated by brackets [ ]. We have also used the following Ohio county abbreviations at times --

ad. = Adams	br. = Brown	cl. = Clermont	war. = Warren

Introduction -- "An Overview of the Work Families in this Booklet"

In researching the Work family of Adams, Brown and Clermont counties in southern Ohio, it has proven to be an insurmountable challenge to tie the various groups together. In an attempt to summarize where we stand, the following thumbnail sketches are offered.

(I) Alexander Work & wife Sarah

He was born (1780s?) in Ireland or PA., and she was born in PA. in 1777, dying in Clermont Co., OH. in 1849. Their oldest children were born in PA., son John being born there about 1803. This is the line from which the author's brother-in-law stems. The younger children were born in Ohio from c1808 to c1813. They tended to center around the northern Clermont Co. area.

(II) James Work & wife Mary

James is found primarily in Brown Co., and is documented in the local history books. Born about 1780 in Ireland, he came to Ohio in 1797, and died in 1858 in Brown Co. His wife (1785-1864) was a native of Kentucky. It does not appear that he was related to Alexander (above), unless they are connected by some unknown Irish ancestry.

(III) William Work

The greatest mystery of this entire project begins with a Clermont Co. estate record of 18 Dec 1803, wherein James Work is named the administrator of William Work, dec'd. Though we may speculate on William's wife, neither she nor any children are named here. At the risk of making some sense out of all of this, we want to present the theory here -- and bear in mind it is only a theory -- that William was a brother of James (above), and the father of the following three sons.

(III-a) Samuel Work & wife Sally

Samuel and Sally married in 1817, but both died in the 1840s. Most of the limited amount we know about this family comes from a Brown Co., OH. chancery action involving Sally's father.

(III-b) Robert Work & wife Letty

Married in 1824, their family is eventually found primarily in Johnson Co., IN., where he and William Work (below) both had land transactions.

(III-c) William Work & wife Rebecca

William (1802-1885) and his family are found primarily in Clermont Co., OH. The first names of his descendants appear to be taken mainly from his wife's family line, so provide few clues.

(I) THE ALEXANDER WORK FAMILY

In putting together the various pieces involved with a given family, we must begin with the known evidence, before moving to those items which might be inferred. Only then can we dare to venture into the area of speculation and "educated guesses". In the case of this branch of the Work family, we know that Alexander Work was on the 1809/1810 Warren Co., OH. tax list, and was named in the 1812 census index of Warren Co. He almost surely is the Alexander Work in the War of 1812 (Capt. Theophilus Simmonton's Co., from 23 Mar to 1 Oct 1813). He evidently died before 1820 (Sarah being head of household in the 1820 and 1830 censuses of Warren Co.), but the cemetery or death record has not been located. Her tombstone in Clermont Co. says "wife of Alexander". It appears that they came to Ohio from Fayette Co., PA., together with the Parkhill, Bigham, and Haney families with whom they were closely connected, and they appear to be included there in the 1800 census. However, we have been unable to determine the parents of Alexander. While one census suggests that Alexander was born in Ireland, it seems equally plausible that he was born in Pennsylvania "of Irish stock", especially if related to the other Work families of the area.

The identity of Alexander's wife Sarah has finally been documented by Mrs. Helen Meeker of Columbus, OH., whose extensive research of the family has been a continuing support throughout this project. In studying the estates of Warren Co., OH., it was noted that the heirs of Miss Mary Bigam's 1841 will (pr. 1850) included her "sister Sarah Work". A comparison with the other wills of the Bigham family proves that Sarah was the daughter of Hugh and Sarah Bigham.

Since there appears to have been a common migratory pattern of several key Warren Co., OH. families from Pennsylvania, it behooves us to at least take a brief glance at several of these. We will share a few tidbits about each surname, with an eye toward its possible connection with the Work family. First, though, we can note that the 1820 Warren Co.,Oh. census listed the following families in order -- S. Werts, F. Everhart, J. Bigham, S. Hart, J.Parkhill, while the 1830 census of Warren Co. listed John Bigham, John Work, Jane Hart, and Sarah Work in that order.

Parkhill -- Alexander and Sarah Work's eldest son John (c1803-1896) married Mary Parkhill in 1830 [m-war]. They were in Warren Co., OH. in the 1830 census, and in Clermont Co., OH. by the 1840 census, having purchased 41 acres there on Stonelick Creek on 4 Jul 1838. In limited research conducted by the author, it appears that James Parkhill of Ireland died in Fayette Co., PA., leaving sons John, David, James, William and Hugh (wife and daughters not discovered yet). The Fayette Co., PA. histories indicate that David and his wife Martha were the parents of twelve children (though only nine were listed in his 1794 will). It is the author's understanding that their daughter Mary was the one who married Jeremiah Morrow, the future governor of Ohio, and that Mary's brother was the John Parkhill who was surveying land in Warren Co., OH. in 1796-97 with Jeremiah Morrow and Thomas Espy [based on county histories]. It is the author's premise (albeit not firmly documented) that this John Parkhill was the father of Mary (b. c1807; d. c1880), who married on 8 Jan 1830 in Warren Co., OH. to John Work. Both the Parkhill and Work families lived in Deerfield Twp. of Warren Co., though the Work family later moved to Clermont Co.,OH.

Bigham -- As mentioned, Alexander Work's wife Sarah was the daughter of Hugh Bigham. His 1804 Warren Co., OH. will (pr. 1807) names his wife Sarah plus children Anne, Polly (=Mary), Jane, John, and Alexander. Daughters Sarah (Work) and Elizabeth (Haney) are not mentioned, perhaps because they were already married. The History of Warren Co. (1882) says that John Bigham (born in Ireland) came to the county about 1798. In Fayette Co., PA., we find the name Samuel Bigham in the 1790 census and Hugh Bigham in the 1800 census. The Warren Co., OH. tax lists of 1809-1810 (Deerfield twp.) include both John Bigham and Sarah Bigham (presumably the widow of Hugh), and the Bigham and Work families are near each other in both the 1820 and 1830 Deerfield Twp. censuses of Warren Co.,OH. Based on limited research, including censuses and estate records of Warren Co., OH., we might then present the following sketch of this family:

Hugh Bigham: d. c Sep 1807 Warren Co., OH.
m Sarah (was she living in 1830 with daughter Jane Hart?)
(7 children; order uncertain)

I. Sarah Bigham: b. c1777 PA.; d. 2 Aug 1849
m (PA.) - Alexander Work -- family continued in following section of booklet

II. Elizabeth Bigham: b. 1774-1784 Fayette Co., PA.; d. 1832 (to Warren Co. 1804)
m (PA.) - Abraham Haney: b. 1774-1784 Fayette Co., PA.; d. 1850 Warren Co., OH.
(6 ch. - William, Sarah, Alexander, James, and two infants)

III. Anne Bigham:
m 1808 - Joseph Hutchinson

IV. Mary Bigham: b. c1760s?; d. early 1850 Warren Co., OH.; unmarried

V. Jane Bigham: b. c1770s?; will pr. Oct 1840 Warren Co., OH.
m 10 Dec 1811 - Samuel Hart: b. 1776-1794; will pr. Apr 1830 Warren Co., OH.
(3 ch. - Elizabeth m Zeb Davis; Mary m John McCready; Sarah m Caleb Thompson)

VI. John Bigham: d. 12 Mar 1859 Warren Co., OH.
m Sarah ____: d. 17 Aug 1853
(4 ch. - Hugh; Jane m John Meighel; Sarah m Sam Craig; Mary Ann m Samuel Walker)

VII. Alexander Bigham: will pr. Oct 1813
m Jane ____: b. 15 Jun 1786 VA.; d. Aug 1856 Clermont Co., OH. (bur. Rapp cem.)
(3 ch. - Harvey - m Elizabeth Smith; Mary - m James Moore; Elizabeth - m Dennis Smith)
Jane m#2 - 1820 - Frederick Eberhart: b. 12 Jul 1794; d. 13 Oct 1838 Clermont Co.
(apparently had a daughter b. 1820-25)

A couple of other Bigham notes may help to clarify and underscore this Work family connection.

(a) On 30 Dec 1829 in Warren Co., a deed was executed for 155 acres from Mary Bigham to Samuel Hart & wife Jane (nee Bigham, Mary's sister). Signing this deed was John Work. These two women and John Work's mother are daughters of Hugh Bigham.

(b) Alexander Bigam, John Bigam (sic), James Hart and Abraham Haney served with Alexander Work in the War of 1812.

Walker & Spence -- Having gone this deeply into the matter of allied families, it should perhaps be noted that in 1839 in Warren Co., Samuel Walker (s/o Samuel B. Walker & Hannah Spence) married Mary A. Bigham, d/o John and granddaughter of Hugh. While this might have only a remote tie, if any, to our Work family, a serious researcher might do well to investigate the well-documented and inter-connected families of Walker and Spence, who came to the area from Franklin Co., PA.

In summary, it would appear that Alexander Work and Sarah Bigham married in Pennsylvania, where they had a couple of children, before moving to Hamilton Twp. of Warren Co., OH. (on or near land of the Walker-Spence group perhaps). After Alexander's death, his wife and their son John evidently moved their families west across the river into Deerfield twp. (near the land of the Bigham, Hart and Parkhill families). It would appear that in 1830 they were living straight north of Foster's Crossing, almost on the west banks of the Little Miami River and not too far south of the township line. They later moved to the northern part of Clermont Co. Although this move put them closer geographically to the Work families which we will discuss later in this booklet, we have no direct support to suggest that they were related to those families who apparently came into Ohio from the Mason Co., KY. direction (evidently from a Maryland site or a Pennsylvania location far east of the Fayette Co. area).

(The Pennsylvania Connection)

We have made frequent references already to the Pennsylvania roots of the above families, and especially to Fayette Co., PA. It appears that the Work, Bigham, Parkhill, and Haney families all came from this county to Warren Co., OH., so logic would suggest that we might discover more about the family of Alexander Work from a closer study of that area. Unfortuntely, it is not quite that simple. The author has not visited this area in Pennsylvania personally, but has studied some of the histories of the county and the census records of the area. There is also a very thorough two-volume Work Family History, by von Gail Hamilton. While the "Work" name is frequently seen in Fayette Co., it has thus far proven impossible to make the pieces fit.

Our research indicates that the children of Alexander and Sarah Work included two who were born in Pennsylvania -- Mary on 28 Feb 1800 and John about 1803. Three others were born in Ohio -- Alexander about 1808, Ann about 1811, and Samuel in Warren Co. about 1813. Given these dates, we might expect to find the family of Alexander and Sarah Work in the 1800 census of Pennsylvania (perhaps Fayette Co.?). One entry seems possible, though it would represent a census taken before the birth of any children.. In German township, we find this 1800 census -- male: 16-26 (1) female: 16-26 (1)

This would fit our Alexander and Sarah Work (about age 20 and 22), and is the same township where Abraham Haney and his wife (presumably Sarah's sister Elizabeth) were residing. Also in the same township were families headed by Henry, John and Andrew Work. However von Gail Hamilton's extensive research in the Work Family History does not give us Alexander's parents.

According to The Work Family History, the main German township group of Fayette Co., PA. was headed by John Work (c1734-1780s) and his wife Martha (d. 1824), and included 7 sons --

Henry (b. c1754) -- went to Kentucky; no sons named Alexander listed
John (b. 1760) -- went to Clark Co., IN.; no sons named Alexander listed
William -- went to Virginia
Joseph -- went to Texas or Illinois
Andrew -- died in Fayette Co., PA. before April 1808
Alexander -- b. c1770s; d. PA. between May 1813 and Jan 1814; m Catherine
Samuel -- b. c1770s; may have gone to Indiana

Although the author of the Work Family History has made errors before, and is always trying to update that information, we are in no position to challenge the above details. The possibility still remains that "our Alexander" was omitted from the Henry or John families who went west, but the possibility also remains that he was from a totally different family. Since our Alexander named his eldest son "John", we might speculate that his own father was named John. But alas, we have no data to confirm this.

We must therefore leave this matter totally undecided, and proceed -- after presenting a glimpse below of the Alexander Work nuclear family -- to list in the following pages the information that we have accumulated about our family of Alexander Work to this point. We will then move on to discussions about some of the other families bearing the "Work" name who came to Brown and Clermont counties in southwestern Ohio.

The Descendants of Alexander and Sarah Work

Alexander Work: b. c1780 (Ireland? or PA.?); d. pre 1820 (probably Warren Co., OH.)
(His wife Sarah headed the 1820 and 1830 census families)

m Sarah Bigham: b. c1777 PA.; d. 2 Aug 1849 (Clermont Co.?); (bur. Rose of Sharon cem.)
(The 1830-1840 censuses say she was born in the 1780s. but the 1820 census suggests a birth between 1776-1794. The cemetery says she died at 72 years. Her tombstone identifies her as the "wife of Alexander", and her sister Mary Bigham's will clearly identifies her as the d/o Hugh & Sarah Bigham.)

m 8 Jan 1830 [Warren co., Oh.] Mary Parkhill: b. c1807; d. 5 Apr 1880 (Cass Co., IN.?)
(She was listed in the 1880 Cass Co., IN. census with her son Alexander. The Alexander Work family Bible says she died 5 Apr 1880. The family was in Warren Co., OH. in 1830, and in Clermont Co., OH. by 1840, where they had purchased 41 acres on Stonelick Creek on 4 Jul 1838. They sold their land in 1879 to his sisters Mary and Ann. In the 1880 Cass Co., IN. census, John and Mary were listed separately with neighboring children.)

(There is some confusion here, in that the family reportedly came from Germany in 1844, and some censuses say she was born in Ohio. The 1850-1860 censuses refer to Mary,7, and to Sophia,16, but no Sylvia.)

Census Records (by year, then county)

(italicized notes in right column are the editor's notes and guesses)

1820 Brown Co., OH. Census (Byrd Twp., p. 344)

WORK, Robert	m:	16-25	(2)	(Robert 22, m 1824)	f:	45+	(1)	(mother?)
		16-18	(1)	(perhaps bro. Wm., 17)		26-44	(1)	(sister?)

(This is a very difficult census page to read, with the lines from one page to the next not precisely aligned. At one point, it appeared that there were 2 females 10-16yr., but it not seems they belong to another line. The latest opinion is shown above.

1820 Brown Co., OH. Census (Byrd Twp., p. 326 -- taken 1 Dec 1820)

WORK, Samuel	m:	26-44	(1)	(b. 1790s)	f:	16-25	(1)	(Sally, b. c1799)
		16-25	(1)	(? bro. Wm., b. 1802)		0-9	(1)	(Pauline, b. c1820)

II. G. 7. George Shields: b. 8 Oct 1888 Clermont Co., OH. [b-cl] m 28 Nov 1908 [cl] - Gertrude Tucker: b. 19 Apr 1888 Clermont Co., OH.,
d/o Frank & Mamie (Little)

H? (The 1910 census shows one child at home -- Albert, 23. It would appear that this is an error for Alfred, b. 1884 and m. Dec 1910, since the 1900 census said Nancy had 7 children, and did not list any Albert. Also, there is no Albert in Byron's 1914 will.)

H-K? (A manuscript in the Clermont Co., OH. Library lists four additional children -- Deborah, Robert, Sadie, and Rebecca. We have no further support for this, and this manuscript seems to have many errors.)

III. Alexander Work II: b. c1808 OH.; d. 1899 (est. pr. 15 May 1899, Clermont Co.)
(He was mentioned in the 1885 wills of his sisters Mary and Ann, while Nancy died a widow in 1899)
m 16 May 1852 [cl] - Nancy Washburn: b. 20 Mar 1822 OH. [d-cl];
d. 24 Mar 1899 Clermont Co., OH. [d-cl] D5:217 ae 77-0-0
(She appears to be the Nancy Washburn living 1850 Clermont with John & Annie Miller)

A. infant Work: b. 10 May 185_ Clermont Co., OH. [b-cl]
(There remains a remote possibility that the infant of the birth records was in fact James, but the May birth does not mesh with the September census age)

B. James Work: b. Sep 1854 OH. [00-cl]; living 1880 Clermont Co. (perhaps 1900)
m 6 Oct 1878 [cl] - Eliza J. Hare: b. c1858 OH.; d. pre 1900?
(It appears this is James, b. Sep 1854, who was living alone as a widower in the 1900 Clermont Co. census, suggesting Eliza had died before 1900.)

1. Thomas A. Work: b. 24 Jul 1879 Clermont Co., OH. [b-cl]
(was he living in Warren Co. in 1900 as a servant with George Clark?)

2. Maggie Work: b. 20 Apr 1884 Warren Co., OH. [m-cl]
(The following marriage is from Clermont Co., which lists Maggie as the d/o James Work & "Annie" Hare. We are assuming this places her in this family, though the 1900 census is of little help here.)
m 2 Jul 1903 [cl] - Robert M. Jeffries: b. 11 Aug 1876 Warren Co., OH.,
s/o Thomas A. & Margaret (Osborn)

IV. Ann Work: b. c1811 OH.; d. 1889 Clermont Co., OH.; unmarried
(Her Clermont Co. will of 7 Nov 1885 was probated 14 Mar 1889) DR4:286

V. Samuel H. Work: b. c1813 Warren Co., OH.; d. 23 Mar 1887 Clermont Co., OH. [d-cl] m 26 Feb 1845 [cl] - Sarah Wood: b. 17 Feb 1824; d. 7 Nov 1853 (prob. Clermont Co.)
Clerm. Co, OH 4:4 John Simpkins JP (bur. Rose of Sharon cem., north of Monterey)

A. Selina Work: b. 17 Dec 1845 OH.; living 1887 Newtonsville [father's heir]
(Her death date is not etched yet on the Plainview cem. tombstone) m 6 Mar 1873 [cl] - Peter L. Runyan: b. 10 Apr1841 OH.; d. 23 Jan 1920, (prob. s/o William L. & Elizabeth) (bur. Plainview cem.)

1. Minnie B. Runyan: b. 25 Jan 1875 Clermont Co., OH. [b-cl] (not in 1880 census)

2. Samuel W. Runyan: b. c1876 OH.

3. Charles Runyan: b. 1879 OH.

1910, s/o Joseph & Mary (Gomean) (bur. Vera Cruz cem., Brown Co.)
(The "History of Brown Co." says he was b. 25 Apr 1846, but the cemetery dates would suggest he was born 22 Apr 1847. The 1850 & 1860 censuses suggest a birth of 1847/8, the 1880 census suggests c1845/6, and the 1900 census says Apr 1846. His newspaper death notice suggests he was born c1849, while the deed book list of heirs suggests a birth c1847. The 1846 is suspect in light of his sister Eleonore's Sep 1845 birth. His obituary says he was survived by his daughter Mamie and sons Frank & Joseph. There was also a family group in the same area by the surname of "Etienne", but they are not related, having come to the area several years later, being natives of Belgium rather than France. The editor has also compiled the history of these two families, which are on file at the Brown Co., OH. Genealogical Library in Georgetown, OH.

(II) THE JAMES WORK FAMILY

Although James Work is the most clearly documented member of the early southwestern Ohio "Work" pioneers,and although his descendants are perhaps the most numerous among those who continued to populate the area, especially Brown Co., there is still very little known about his ties to his contemporaries bearing the Work surname.

The History of Brown Co., Ohio (1883) says that he was born in Ireland, settled in Pleasant Twp. about 1797, moved five years later to Jefferson Twp. [ed. note -- in these townships are the towns of Georgetown and Russellville; south of both towns is the Red Oak cemetery where several early family members were buried]. James married Mary Evans, and it is said that both lived to old age. The history also lists eleven children -- Elizabeth, Jemima, Sarah, Rachel, Lucinda, Mary Ann, Joseph, Elijah, William, George, and John. This list is significant in that it appears, based on other data, to first list the daughters in birth order, and then list the sons in birth order. The appearance of William in this scheme would seem to confirm him as the William Work who was born in 1816 and died in 1834, and would thereby eliminate him from consideration as the William who died in 1803 in Clermont Co. or the William Work born in 1802 who married Rebecca Harlow (see later for discussion of these two men). Eight of the above children are also named in James' 1852 will.

The Historical Collections of Brown Co., OH. (1959) by Carl N. Thompson notes [p. 517] that Mary Evans was born in 1785 in Mason Co., KY., and died 4 Jun 1864 in Brown Co., OH., the daughter of Edward Evans (1760-1843). In 1802 (sic) she married James Work, born in Ireland.

The marriage records show that James Work and Mary Evans (of Byrd Twp.) were married in Adams Co., OH. on 24 Jan 1805, a few years before Byrd Twp. became part of the newly formed Brown Co. In 1803 in Clermont Co., a James Work was named executor of the estate of William Work (to be discussed later). We speculate, though cannot definitively prove, that the two men may have been brothers. It can be noted that there was a marriage on 1 Mar 1804 in Clermont Co., OH. between Robert Allen and Martha Work, but we have been unsuccessful in documenting the identity of this Martha, and have not been able to locate the Allen family in later years. Could she have been a sister of James Work and/or William Work?

In summary, James Work of Ireland resided in the southern half of Brown Co., perhaps entering the area by the oft-used route from Mason Co., Ky. His family seemed to either remain in the southern portion of Brown Co. or migrated to western Indiana, a factor which may become more significant when we discuss the migrantion patterns of some other Work men still to be discussed. By contrast, Alexander Work, whom we discussed in the first portion of this project, apparently came from Ireland to Fayette Co., PA., and then migrated to Warren Co., OH., from where his family moved to northeastern Clermont Co. With the exception of a son who moved to northern Indiana, his descendants tended to remain in a relatively small area near northeastern Clermont Co. We have found little to suggest that James and Alexander were closely related, though there does remain the possibility that they shared common Irish family ties, but took different routes to Ohio. The outline of the James and Mary Work family begins on the following page.

(James reportedly came to PA. at age 12, and came to Ohio in 1797, perhaps following a stay in Kentucky. His wife Mary was born in Kentucky, and lived in Byrd Twp. of Adams Co., OH. when they married. That part of Adams Co. became part of the new Brown Co. in 1818.)

Jeremiah's mother Elizabeth Washburn Harlow was b. c1767 Germany, and was living in the 1850 Montgomery Co., IN. with Elizabeth Work Harlow and family. It appears that she was the older female in the 1840 Montgomery Co., IN. census of Jeremiah. She was a sister of Cornelius Washburn, s/o Jeremiah. The younger Jeremiah (1790s-1840s) had a sister Rebecca who married William Work (1802-1885) of Clermont Co., OH. If the 1840 family of Jeremiah & Elizabeth included only their children, several apparently died young. In addition to the following, the 1840 census shows another female b. 1825-1830, plus two more males and a female born in the 1835-1840 period. Some of the following details comes from a family group sheet at the Brown Co. Historical Library, submitted by John R. Ross, Box 154, Brockwell, AR-72517 (date?) There is also some suggestion that another daughter may have been first born in Ohio and died before the 1830 census.

(III) THE WILLIAM WORK FAMILY

Editor's Note -- It has proven impossible thus far for the current editor to confirm family relationships between the various "Work" men in the sections which follow. Readers are urged to regard hypotheses as such.

All that we know for certain about this William Work can be summed up in one sentence -- that "on 18 Dec 1803 in Clermont Co., OH., papers were filed for the estate of William Work, naming James Work administrator, with bond made by James Work, James Morrow, William Wh__?, and Thomas Lemmon." The hard-to-read data is located on microfilm P.M. 6-912 in the Clermont Co., OH. probate office.

Who was this William Work? What was his relation to James Work? Why is there no mention of his spouse or children? Because the present editor has an intense desire to make sense of family relationships, we are speculating for reasons that will be explained in the following sections that the James Work mentioned in this estate paper was the same James Work (c1777-1858) that was discussed at length in the previous section of this booklet. We would also suggest that William is possibly the father of Samuel, Robert, and William Jr. who will be discussed in following sections. Because such statements are very hypothetical in nature, however, lacking the full documentation required for good genealogical research, the following section will consist largely of our premises, along with whatever rationale we have to make such assumptions.

(1) Our premise that the James Work who was named administrator of William Work's estate was the James Work of Brown Co. is partially based on the process of elimination -- deeds and other records simply do not reveal another James Work who fits. This James would have been about 26 years old, and presumably lived in the adjoining county. It can be noted that in the 1820 census of Brown Co., OH., James, Robert and Samuel Work were all listed as living in Byrd Twp. Another factor which might provide support here concerns the migratory patterns. As already noted, three children of James Work migrated west to Montgomery Co., IN. (about 50 miles west-northwest of Indianapolis). As we will see in the next section, several children of Samuel Work (b. 1790s) also settled in Montgomery Co.,IN. This at least raises the possibility that these westward moving members of the Work family might have been cousins.

(2) We have mentioned the possibility that Samuel, Robert and William Work might have been sons of the William Work under consideration. If this is true, we would conclude that William died relatively young, since the three boys would have apparently all been under ten years of age. This factor would lend support to explain why they were not mentioned in the estate papers, and would also support the idea that the 26-year-old James might have been the brother of William. It is frustrating, however, if this be the case, that no guardianship papers have been discovered thus far by the editor.

The author would be the first to admit that the premise of these three men being sons of William is shaky. We can note that each of the three named a son "William", and two of the three named a son "James". Mary or Mary Jane also seemed to be common to all three, for whatever that may be worth. We would also note that two of the three, Robert and William, had land transactions in Johnson Co.,IN. in the 1930s. Although this is around 30 miles south of Indianapolis, it would be "on the northwestern pathway" taken by other family members heading to Montgomery Co.

(3) Another mystery concerns the wife of William Work, whom we would normally assume had survived him, if he died at a young age, leaving young children. Hopes once held by the editor of resolving this problem now appear to be too elusive, so we can only share insights gleaned from about three different directions. The reader should be cautioned that any of these, or none of these, may be pertinent to our discussion here. We will label them 3-a, 3-b, and 3-c for discussion.

(3-a) Did William's widow marry Robert Allen? Early Clermont Co. marriage records show that on 1 Mar 1804 Robert Allen married Martha Work, the first mention of the Work surname in the Clermont marriage records. Could Martha have been a sister of James and/or William Work? Or, since the marriage occurred shortly after the death of William Work, could she have been his widow? An attempt was made to discover more about this Robert & Martha Allen family, but no pertinent data has been located to date. It is not thus known if this Allen family stayed in the area.

If we follow our hypothesis that Samuel, Robert and William (Jr.) Work were sons of the William whose estate appeared in Clermont Co., OH. in 1803, it may be significant there was an older female in the 1820 Brown Co. census of Robert Work (before he married in 1824), and also in the 1830 Brown Co., OH. census (she was born 1870-1875). There is no such older female in his 1840 Johnson Co., IN. census. While such persons are not named in those early census records, we can at least raise the question of whether this might refer to Robert Work's mother (whether still a Work or an Allen), with the possibility that she died during the 1830s, perhaps in Indiana.

(3-b) Had William Work married Mary Kay? Research done by others on the Kay/Key family has traced this family back to Philadelphia in the 1760s. According to information provided by Patricia R. Donaldson of the Brown Co., OH. genealogy society, there was a William Work in the tax lists of Mason Co., KY. in 1797, but he is not listed thereafter. She cites research done on the Kay/Key family, which shows that John Kay of Philadelphia married Elizabeth Smart (or Smoot). Their daughter Mary Kay, born 1761, married William Work, and moved to Mason Co., KY. This line is not followed further by the researchers, but her brother Zaccheus is traced to Brown Co., OH., where descendants born in Kentucky are listed in the 1850 Brown Co., OH. census.

It may be significant that Alexander Jolly married Sarah Kay (both natives of Maryland), since the Jolly family and the James Work family (of Section II) had close interactions in the early 1800s of Adams and Brown Co., OH. Isaac Key was a witness to the marriage of James Work, while a Philip Jolly was involved with his will. Alexander Jolly, J.P., performed the marriage of Samuel Work and Sally Mann. Alexander's son Jacob married Mary Harlow, d/o Samuel.

Estates

Estates -- Adams Co., OH.

Adm. 1-325; Box 3-66

Moses L. Work -- on 9 Feb 1912 John Stevenson named adm.,after widow refused. Inventory names widow Florence + heirs Mary, Glenn, Robert, Roy, & Lawrence E. (As of 26 Mar 1912, all are under 14 except Mary who is sometimes listed as "over 16" and sometimes "over 14")

(3-c) Could William Work have a Cecil Co., MD. connection? The marriage records of Cecil Co., MD. show that on 2 May 1793 William Works (sic) married Rebecca Tully. She was perhaps a widow, since there was a Rebecca Tully heading a household in the 1790 census, . Seven years later, in October 1800, a Mason Co., KY. record authorizes "William Works of Cecil Co., MD." to receive the assets of a Kentucky estate. The Mason Co. deed book shows that Dr. Thomas Ward had bequeathed property to his sister Rebecca (Mrs. William Davis). A November 1800 deed [bk. C-1, p. 166] stated, "I, William Davis of Cecil Co.,MD. appoint William Works of Cecil Co....to receive from Francis Taylor proceeds of property to be sold.." Apparently William Works was in the process of going to Kentucky, but it is difficult to reconcile this "William Works" with the William Work who reportedly married Mary Kay and was living in Mason Co., KY. by 1797.

(3-summary) In summary, it must be allowed that the above could be talking about numerous men named William Work(s). If the same man married Mary Kay around 1780 and Rebecca Tully in 1793, and if Mary's husband was in Mason Co.,KY., it suggests that William travelled back and forth several times. The proposed sons Samuel, Robert and William were born from the 1790s to 1802. If the older female (in her 50s) listed within the Robert Work household of the 1830 census was in fact his mother, her age does not fit Mary's 1761 birth well. It may also be noted that none of the three men named daughters "Rebecca", while they each named a daughter "Mary". On the other hand, none of the distinctive Kay names (like Zacchaeus, Isaac, etc.) are found among the Work descendants. We therefore can do no more at this time than to share the above data with the hope that someday a researcher may discover details which have thus far eluded this author. We will now proceed to additional discussion concerning these three Work men (Samuel, Robert, William) with Brown Co.,OH. ties.

(III-A?) THE SAMUEL WORK FAMILY

Samuel Work is being discussed first among these three possible sons of William Work because he appears to be the eldest of the three, though his exact birthdate is the least clear. The 1840 Brown Co. census suggests he was born in the 1790s, while the 1820 census, also Brown Co., would place his birth between 1776-1794. He has not been located in the 1830 census, so we might place his birth in the early 1790s, making him around ten years old when William Work died and about 24 when he himself married. Although he apparently was born and died in Brown Co., his elusiveness in the 1830 census, and the appearance of some of his daughters in Montgomery Co., IN., leads us to wonder if he might have at least temporarily travelled that direction as well. A book on "Indiana Land Purchases" says that Samuel Work of Brown Co., OH. purchased 127 acres on 12 Dec 1821, but the Indiana county involved is unclear (perhaps Shelby?). Since he has not been found in 1830 in either Indiana or Ohio, perhaps he was listed with another family then.

Samuel Work married in 1817 in what was then Adams Co., OH. to Sally Mann, d/o John. From chancery court action involving the heirs of John Mann, we know that both Samuel and Sally died between 1841-1849. We have a list of their children living in the 1840s, but unfortunately have not been able to determine where those children were living. Samuel's eldest two daughters had evidently migrated to Montgomery Co., IN. (where they married in 1848-1850), though one of them later returned to Ohio. It can be noted that some of the relatives of William's wife moved to Montgomery Co., IN., as did some members of the James Work family (see Section II above).

This may be the place to bring up another mystery, namely the confusion surrounding a man by the name of Oliver Work. An Oliver Work of Brown Co., OH. spent much of his life in mental institutions. Depending on which census you choose, he was born c1834 [1850 census], c1833 [1860 census], c1817 [1880 census] or Oct 1825 [1900 census]. An insanity paper of Brown Co. suggests he was born c1841. The "Oliver" name is more prevalent among the Mann family than the Work family, suggesting he might belong here. There definitely was an Oliver Work listed as one of the minor children of Samuel & Sally in 1849, placing his birth after 1828. In these papers, which appear to list the children in birth order, Oliver is placed between William (b. after 1828) and Mary Jane (b. c1832 according to one census). We will trust the birth order of the estate papers, and assume that some or all of the census ages are questionable. With this distraction, we move then to the known, albeit sketchy, information about the Samuel & Sally Work family.

The Descendants of Samuel and Sally Work

Samuel Work: b.1790s; d. 1841-1849
m 6 Mar 1817 [adams] - Sally Mann: b. c1799;d. 1841-1849 [father's estate papers-br], & Burned Rec. Box 38 #139 see below
d/o John & Abigail (Devore) MANN

(In the John Mann estate papers, Sally was always listed second, behind her sister born in 1798, and ahead of her brother born in 1804. The early census records would put her birth in the 1790s.)

(8 children based on Brown Co., OH. court papers following her father's death)

I. Pauline Work: b. c1820 OH.; living 1850 Montgomery Co., IN.
m 16 Sep 1848 (Montgomery Co., IN.) - Godfrey B. Pampel: b. c1809 France

Pauline Pompella is listed in the Jun 1849 John Mann heirs as the d/o Samuel & Sally Work. She and husband G. B. Pampell (sic) are listed in the 1850 Montgomery Co., IN. census, apparently with his two sons from a prior marriage (Theodore 14, and Edwin 11), their daughter Emma J., age 1, and five other persons ranging in age from 11-31, several of whom bear the surname of "Oliver". Though there is a Montgomery Co., IN. marriage record on 4 Nov 1849 in Montgomery Co., IN. between Pauline Work and Thompson Park, this is almost surely another Pauline Work. They are probably the 1850 census family of that county which included Thompson Park, 30, Mary F./P.?, 18, and Eura A. 6 months.

1. Emma J. Pampel: b. c1849 IN.

II. Lavinia Work: b. 15 Jun 1823; d. 9 Dec 1913
m 4 Jun 1850 (Montg. Co., IN.?) - William D. Huggins: b. 17 Aug 1814; d. 17 Aug 1885

(William & Lavinia returned to Ohio by at least 1867, when he was appointed guardian of two children of Lawson Huggins, dec'd. -- Eliza Bell (b. 1856) and Charles F. (1860-1931). William & Lavinia are buried in the Huggins Cemetery in the far southwest corner of Highland Co., OH.)

III. George Work: b. 1820-1828 (prob. 1824-1828) (did not require guardian in 1849)

IV. William Work: b. after 1828 (was listed as a minor in 1849)

V. Oliver Work: (b. c1833? OH.?)

(See the discussion at the bottom of the previous page concerning the Oliver Work mysteries.)

VI. Mary Jane Work: b. c1832 [1880 census] (listed as a minor in 1849)

VII America Work: b. 1836-1840 [1840 census] (listed as a minor in 1849)

VIII.Narcissa Work: b. 1836-1840 [1840 census] (listed as a minor in 1849)

(We have no proof that this is the same person as the Narcessus Work who married in 1859, probably in Marshall Co., IL. to Samuel Work, no relation, b. 13 Dec 1811 PA., as reported in The Work History of 1969. Samuel had an underground railroad station in Woodford, IL. Three children were listed -- Florence, Arthur Orr of Kankakee,IL., and Walter S. of Chicago, (born c1861, 1866, c1870 IL.) Samuel is reportedly the s/o James Work, c1768-1842, who migrated from Cumberland Co., PA. to Marshall Co., IL. about 1836. Marshall Co., IL. is located northeast of Peoria, IL., but at least 150 miles northwest of Montgomery Co., IN.)

(III-B?) THE ROBERT WORK FAMILY

While the descendants of Robert Work are fairly well documented in the Johnson Co.,IN. records, his ancestoral record is less clear. Our inclination is that he is one of the sons of the William Work who died in Clermont Co., OH. in 1803, and possibly a brother of Samuel and William Work Jr. This has not been firmly documented, however. By way of example, the 1850 census says he was born in Ohio;

the 1860 census says he was born in Kentucky;
the 1880 census says he was born in Pennsylvania;
the 1900 census of his son and the county history book suggest he was born in Maryland.

If he was the son of William (d. 1803), it seems likely that his father was born in Ireland, his mother was born in Maryland, and Robert was born in Mason Co., KY. after the family moved there, and before they crossed the river to Adams (later Brown) Co., OH.

Brown Co. marriage records show that Robert Work married in late 1824, but he seems to be the man listed as "head of household" in the 1820 Brown Co. census. Since no other names are listed in those early census records, one can only speculate on their identity. We would therefore dare to suggest that (a) he was the oldest male remaining on the family farm; (b) the female over 45 years of age might have been his mother; (c) the male age 16-18 could have been his 17 year old brother William Jr.; and (d) the 26-44 year old female could have been an older sister, of whom we have no further record at this point. We can also note that the 1830 Brown Co. census ages of Robert Work household would allow for Robert (32), his wife Letty (29), and two infant children (William 2 and Mary J. 1). There is also an older female in her 50s (Robert's mother?), and a teenage male age 15-19 whose identity remains unknown. By 1840, Robert is in Johnson Co., IN., with persons who would fit his wife Letty and their three children. There is no older female (had she died during the 1830s?), and there is still an additional male in his 20s, identity still unknown. Unfortunately, by the 1850 census when everyone is named, this male is not in the household.

The book Early Landowners of Johnson Co., IN., includes Robert Works from Brown Co., OH., William & Rebecca Works, plus the Burget, Joliffe and Slack families. Robert married a Burgett, while his son James married a Joliffe lady whose mother was a "Slack". On 6 Oct 1830, William sold land in Johnson Co.,IN. to Robert, adding to our suggestion that the two men were brothers. The known outline of the Robert Work family, therefore, includes the following data.

Robert Work: b. c1798 KY.(?); living 1880 Johnson Co., IN.
(The 1880 census suggests Robert was born in 1800, but earlier census records support a date prior to that. According to the 1880 census, Robert's father was born in Ireland, and his mother was born in Maryland.)

m 23 Dec 1824 [br] - Lettice ("Letty") Burgett: b. c1800 OH., d. pre 1880?, d/o Valentine

I. William V. Work: b. 1 June ~~c~~1828 OH.; living alone 1880 in Johnson Co., IN.
(was he perhaps named after Robert's father, with the middle initial "V" perhaps coming from his father-in-law Velentine?)

(III-C?) THE WILLIAM WORK JR. FAMILY

This particular William Work family is not without its mysteries. First, we remain uncertain of his father, though we are leaning toward the idea that he is the s/o William Work whose estate papers were filed in Clermont Co. in 1803, perhaps making him a brother of Robert and Samuel, and a nephew of James (b. 1777). One anonymous library file said that he was the son of James, but this is highly questionable, since (a) he was born three years before James married, and (b) James had a son William (1816-1837) who is buried at the Red Oak cemetery of Brown Co.

We have no record of William's wife Rebecca after the early 1860s. In 1861, their son Robert was named guardian of the three younger sons, though it is unclear why the children (age 14-20) would need a guardian. One of the men making bond was Jacob Moss (Robert's brother-in-law), and the paper referred to assets "derived from the sale of real estate of Samuel Work, dec'd., a partner of the guardian." (This would refer to Robert's brother who died in 1859). One year later, Robert entered the U.S. service and made his will, leaving his property to his parents William and Rebecca, and then after their death to his two youngest brothers Francis and Thomas. Robert's will was proved in May 1863, suggesting he was a Civil War casualty.

In separate 1868 Brown Co. transactions, William Work sold to Thomas Prall for $1 the land he had received from his son Robert, while five days earlier his sons Francis and Thomas (residents of Richland Co., IL.) sold the identical parcel to the same person for $2400. There is no mention of William's wife Rebecca, leading us to wonder if she had died during the previous few years. Two years later, William is listed in the 1870 household of his son Cornelius. He was not found in the 1880 census, but was buried in the Bloom Rose cemetery in 1885.

William was listed in the Johnson Co., IN. census in 1830, but was back in Clermont Co. by 1840. In Oct 1830, he sold land in Johnson Co., IN. to Robert Work, who remained in that area, a deed which would seem to support our premise that the two men were brothers. Meanwhile, William's wife Rebecca had a brother Jeremiah Harlow, who married the daughter of James Work (see Section II). Jeremiah and his family migrated to Montgomery Co., IN., as did some children of Samuel Work (Section III-A), all of which suggests that the James Work family was in fact tied rather closely to the three men -- Samuel, Robert, and William Work -- whom we are projecting as the sons of William Work and quite possibly nephews of James.

A word might be in order here about the spelling of the husband of William's eldest daughter. We believe that the prevailing spelling tended to be "Morss", but would quickly add that the name was often seen as "Moss", and in later times as "Morrse." We are treating them as inter-changeable. Given that, let us then move to the known outline of the family of William Work (Jr.?).

He had five known children -- Francis, Anne, Carrie, Uriah, and Charles. There was also a Uriah Malott, 1840-1914, who was the s/o Andrew J. Malott.)

A. Francis B. Malott: b. cMar 1849 OH.

(On 6 Oct 1859 in Clermont Co., legal action was taken by Uriah C. Malott in behalf of Francis B. Malott, a minor, involving 110 acres of land. Named in the papers were Joab and Mary Moss, Lewis C. Work, Elizabeth and James Work (probably the two children of Jeremiah), Robert Work, Jackson Work, William Work Jr., Garett Work, Francis Work, and Thomas Work. This led to a sheriff's sale, with property on the Clermont - Brown Co. line purchased by Robert Work. It joined land of Samuel Work & Cornelius Harlow.

(Note: He is not to be confused with the Francis Malott who was born 14 Feb 1842, and died 4 May 1907 in Clermont Co. There are marriages in 1869 to Louisa Noftsgan, in 1877 to Ann Louisa Smallwood, and to Minerva J. Smallwood. It appears from the censuses that these involve the Francis born 1842, but the possibility still remains that one or more could involve Francis of 1849.)

IV. Samuel H. Work: b. 28 Feb 1830 OH.;
d. 20 Mar 1859 Clermont Co., OH. (bur. Bloom Rose cem.) ae 29yrs. s/o W. + Rebecca

m 23 Sep 1851 [cl] - Emily Fryman: b. c1833; living 1860
(Jeremiah was not named in the legal action involving Francis B. Malott, but his children were -- see above. He was evidently deceased. In the 1860 census, his wife and children were listed with his parents William and Rebecca Work.)

A. Elizabeth Work: b. c1853 OH.

B. James Work: b. c1855 OH.
(could this be the Jeremiah B. Work, b. 1855, in the Adams Co. 1910 census? He was married to Mary M. & daughter Eunice was b. 1895 in VA.)

(The marriage record calls her Mary E. Parkhill, but this seems to be an error -- unless it was a married name, since she was 32 at this marriage. Son Ray's birth and marriage records both list his mother as Mary E. Bicking. His wife was "Marietta" in the 1920 census. He is evidently the James G. APPENDIX -- A FEW OTHER MYSTERIES

In addition to the various puzzles already presented, there are a few other tidbits from the Adams, Brown and Clermont Co., OH. area which have not yet been connected to the above families. One group is somewhat documented in the local records, so we will begin with them.

John Work of Washington Co., PA.

According to The Work History (Vol. 2), a John Work who died in 1804 was listed among the inhabitants of Washington Co., PA. (1776-1780). It appears that he was the John Work listed in the 1800 census of Chartiers twp. of Washington Co., PA. His wife appears to be listed in the 1820 census of the same township, with son John Jr. at home. In 1840, the latter John appears to be the listing there with his wife and six children who match the ages of the 1850 names. This John Jr. was living in Adams Co., OH. According to a great-grandson, John R. Work, the family moved after the Civil War to Bardolph, IL., a small town near Macomb (about 50 miles west of Peoria) in the Illinois Military Tract. At least one son, Samuel, later moved about 30 miles south to Rushville, IL., where he had bought a coal mine. From available data, we learn the following.

John Work: b. c1800 PA.; living 1870 Bardolph, IL. (son of John who d. 1804) m c1826 - Margaret MacCloskey: b. c1805 PA.; living 1870 Bardolph, IL.

I. Ann Work: b. c1830 PA. (at home in Adams Co. in 1850, not with family by 1870)
(The 1870 census of Ann's parents includes three Campbell children -- Mary E. 19, b. OH.; William 16, b. OH.; Alice 13, b. IL. Meanwhile, the nearby census of John III included a J. Campbell, 17, b. IL. Is there any chance that Ann could have married Mr. Campbell and died before 1870?)

II. William Work: b. c1832 PA.; living 1870 Bardolph, IL.
m 17 Feb 1862 [ad] - Isabella Kerr: b. c1843 OH.

A. Edwin B. Work: b. 12 Nov1863 Bardolph, IL.

B. Edward Work: b. 12 Nov 1863 Bardolph, IL.
(An undocumented source says Edward was "twin of ?". If this is accurate, he apparently died young, as he is not mentioned in the 1870 census. Or had someone just confused the names Edward and Edwin?)

B. Nathaniel Work: b. c1865 IL. (Another source lists this child as "Frank")
C. Mary Work: b. c1869 IL.
D. Margaretta Work: b. c1871
E. Anna Work: b. c1873
F. William Work: b. c1876

III. John Work (III): b. 8 Nov 1834 PA.; living 1870 Bardolph, IL.

IV. Sarah Alice Work: b. c1836 PA. (living at home yet in 1870 census, which says b. c1840)

Index

The following index applies only to the genealogical outline portion of the booklet, and does not attempt to include the documentation section. Names of the parents of persons who married into the family are also not included. When a surname is mainly confined to one section of the book, no attempt has been made to list all first names in the family. Common first names are often divided by using the middle names or dates of birth.

Other Notes

(the following three items may be from Clermont Encyclopedia Directory of 1902)

(a) Letter of 7 Apr 1862 -- to John & Mary Work, from Alexander Work (possibly also from John Jr.)...have written Nancy...Thomas Wood...25 miles from Murphysboro, to move soon.

(b) Civil War -- Alexander Work and brother John -- enlisted 3 Sep 1861, Co. I, 2nd Reg. Ohio Volunteer Infantry

(c) John Work has a cabinet and undertaking shop, where he has worked for some fifteen years in Newtonsville, OH. (source ??)

Confusion -- Sylvia (Nichols) Work's death record clearly states that she was born in France...1880 census says b. OH....In the 1900 & 1910 Clermont Co., OH. census for Charles Nichols family, it states that he came to USA in 1844...Sylvia was supposedly born 1845. Did Charles come early? Or was Sylvia born in Ohio?

Each claim made about your ancestor must be proven. Each proving document you submit should be identified by giving it a letter (A, B, C, etc.) and clearly writing its identifying letter on the front. DO NOT SUBMIT ORIGINAL DOCUMENTS. Copies of documents may be (1) photo or other facsimiles of the originals or (2) exact typed or hand-printed copies of the original certified as true copies by a court house official, genealogical librarian or other official. The source of each document should be indicated on the front.

Fill out the chart. In each small square (found at the end of the lines) put the number of the footnote line (below) on which you cite the documents (including their identifying letters) which prove the claim to be true. For example, suppose you claim that Jane Roe died on 7 May 1847. On a blank footnote line cite the document which shows that this is so and write the number of that footnote line in the appropriate square. (Example: ....The said Jane Roe died on 7 May 1847 at Athens County Ohio. ☐6 .... Footnote line 7. Death certificate -- document F). Add additional squares if needed.
